William Green Is Chosen Leader For American Federation Of Labor

TREASURER OF MINERS NEW PRESIDENT

Samuel Gompers' Successor Selected at Session of Executive Council

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—The American Federation of Labor executive council today elected William Green, one of its members, and treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America, to the presidency of the organization, left vacant by the death of Samuel Gompers.

Green is a resident of Coshocton, Ohio, is 51 years old, and has been a miner since he was 18.

The election was held in the Elks' club here, where funeral services for Green's predecessor were conducted yesterday. There were all ten members of the executive council present. Six votes were enough to elect.

Prominent In Politics

Not only has Green been active in labor circles since he reached maturity, but he has been prominent in politics in Ohio as well.

He served two terms in the Ohio legislature and was time president of its Senate. He was secretary and treasurer of the federation in 1912 and 1923 and in the latter year became a member of the executive council.

The new president has a wife and five children.

Other candidates for the position, it is understood, were James Duncan and Matthew Woll, both vice-presidents of the federation, and council members.

Six of the ten votes of the executive council were necessary for a choice.

Green is fourth vice-president of the federation. He has been associated for years with John L. Lewis, in the leadership of the United Mine Workers' union.

Duncan has been first vice-president for thirty years, and well known in labor circles.

Woll is the youngest of the vice-presidents, although he, too, is widely known among labor men. He is president of the Photo Engravers' union.

New Chief Of Labor Forces

WILLIAM GREEN, treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America, who was today chosen to the presidency of the American Federation of Labor. He is a resident of Ohio, age 51, and has been a miner since he was 18.

Police Chief Charged With Demanding Graft

PACIFIC GROVE, Cal., Dec. 19.—Deputy District Attorney Argyl Campbell announced today he would investigate fully the charges made by Mrs. Constantina Marotta that Chief of Police F. W. Cording had taken her joy riding, attempted to kiss her, invited her riding a second time, with a later demand for money, and then raided her place for "bootlegging" when she delayed payment of the money.

"Mrs. Marotta and members of her family have been arrested two or three times for bootlegging," said Campbell, "and have pleaded guilty."

Big Blizzard Upsets Train Service, Wires

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 19.—Trains from three to four hours late, with one Burlington train "lost," telegraph and telephone communication virtually at a standstill, was the aftermath today of a blizzard that swept Missouri and Kansas last night bringing with it five below zero temperatures this morning. Rising temperatures during the day to fifteen or twenty above with a drop to below zero tomorrow are forecast.

Although Oklahoma was experiencing the coldest weather of the year, ranging from 10 above in the central section to zero in the northern Panhandle, it was less hard hit than other sections of the southwest. Rain is reported throughout Texas.

GENERAL'S SON CLEANS UP IN STOCKS

Recent Boom Nets Fortune To Osborn Wood; Plans Business Career

By FRANK E. MASON
For International News Service.

PARIS, Dec. 19.—The recent boom in stocks in Wall Street netted Osborn Wood, son of General Wood, governor-general of the Philippine Islands, $2,000,000 his friends declared today.

Wood admitted to International News Service today that he had been playing Wall Street, but refused to confirm the amount of his profits. When Wood was asked what specific stocks he had dealt in, he replied:

"That is unimportant. I have however, decided not to take diplomatic examinations, but instead will return to New York within a fortnight and enter the oil business.

"It would be very unwise for me to say in what stocks I made my profits. That would be a poor start for a permanent business career."

BELOW ZERO DIP HITS SALT LAKE

Utah Capital Shivering In Coldest Weather In 32 Years

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 19.—Salt Lake is shivering in the coldest December temperature it has experienced in thirty-two years.

The coldest December on record was in 1879 when the thermometer registered 10 degrees below. In December 1919 the mercury stood at zero on one occasion and in 1892 at 2 below.

The coldest weather last winter in January when the mercury struck 8 degrees above.

Throughout the intermountain region minus temperatures were frequent.

DAMAGE DONE CITRUS CROP UNKNOWN

May Require Two Weeks To Determine Loss In Southland Groves

BULLETIN

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 19.—Southern California's citrus crop has been damaged 2 or 3 per cent, Floyd Young, government frost observer at Pomona, declared today. Failure to use smudge pots in some sections caused slight damage, he said.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Cold weather in many parts of the country is breaking all records for December, the United States weather bureau announced today, in issuing a warning that freezing temperature may be expected as far south as central Florida by Monday.

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 19.—Reports to the United States crop reporting service here today indicated that citrus growers in Southern California would be unable to determine for at least two weeks how much damage had resulted from the cold snap of the last few days.

Oranges from the northern and central counties, which were on the trees Wednesday night and Thursday morning, were tested at the state department of agriculture today and were found undamaged.

Last night, however, the temperature was lower and it is believed considerable damage resulted.

The citrus crop in the state at large was 82 per cent of normal before the "freeze" set in.

Members of the "Boys' traffic patrol" will wear "stars" patterned after the badges of real policemen, but will not carry side arms. Night sticks will be given to boys above the grade of sergeant.

ANOTHER WAR IN EUROPE POSSIBLE

Albania Uprising May Lead To Conflict Rivaling Recent Struggle

BULLETIN

ROME, Dec. 19.—Unconfirmed dispatches from Belgrade today said that Fan Noli, the premier of Albania, has fled as a result of the victories scored by the rebel movement.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—Shadows of another Balkan war, a possible forerunner of another huge European conflict, were foreseen today in the Albanian insurrection by Bey Konitza, Albanian minister to London.

He charged Serbia with instigating the trouble, but the Jugo-Slavian legation denied that Serbians were in any way involved.

"Unless some great power intervenes another Balkan war is imminent, followed probably by a European war," the Albanian minister declared. "The trouble that has arisen is due to the deliberate militaristic policy of aggression on the part of Serbia against Albania. There is a keen desire on the part of Serbia to annex Albania."

His charges were denied in a statement from the Jugo-Slavian legation.

Mobilization General Throughout Albania

BELGRADE, Dec. 19.—The Albanian rebels followed their success at Kruya with occupation of all territory surrounding that city, dispatches to Belgrade stated today. The flight of Fan Noli, premier, who dislodged Ahmed Zegu, leader of the present insurrection, was believed imminent.

Government troops were driven back in disorder from Kruya and some defections to the rebel ranks were reported, according to the dispatches here.

Martial law declared in the five border prefectures of Albania has given a darker hue to the war clouds hanging over the country. General mobilization ordered yesterday was effective all over the country today.

MIDWEST HIT BY HERALDED STORM

Illinois Is Center of Fury Caused When Wires Are Crippled

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—The long heralded storm which for days has been slowly moving out of the northwest, crept over Chicago and the middle west today, centering its fury in Illinois, where today it had taken its toll of interrupted wire service and paralyzed traffic.

A fine snow, piling in drifts over the coating of ice to which last night's sharp drop in temperature transformed the earlier rain, was still falling over the state today with no prospects of clearing. Near zero temperatures were prevailing.

Wires Service Hit

Commercial wire companies had hundreds of linemen working throughout the state in an effort to re-establish communication in the storm area, but this morning officials of the companies reported scores of poles snapped off by ice, holding but slight promise of the immediate resumption of normal conditions.

The storm was general throughout the midwest and southwest, and, according to weather bureau officials, was moving eastward.

18 Degrees Below Zero Sets Iowans Shivering

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, Dec. 19.—The temperature here this morning at 7 o'clock registered 17 degrees below zero and at 7:30 it had dropped one more point to 18 degrees below with indications of still colder weather.

McCoy, On Stand, Says Teresa Mors Killed Self

MRS. TERESA MORS, Los Angeles woman, for whose death NORMAN SELBY (Kid McCoy) is standing trial, and inset of Kid McCoy from picture taken at the time of his arrest. The accused man went on the witness stand today and told his version of the death mystery. He claims the woman took her own life.

Accused Man and Attorney Pose Before Jury to Illustrate Their Version of Manner in Which Woman Met Mysterious Death

By COPELAND C. BURG
For International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 19.—"Don't leave me, Norman—oh, I'm going to end it all." His voice half sobbing and his face flushed, Kid McCoy quoted these words on the witness stand today at his murder trial as the last of his auburn-haired sweetheart, Teresa Mors.

"That's what she said and then she killed herself," testified the former ring idol, as he related the dramatic events of August 13 in a Los Angeles apartment which led to his arrest on a murder charge.

Stage Death Scene

With Attorney Geisler taking the role of the slain woman, McCoy stood before the nine women and three men who hold his fate in their hands as jurors, and illustrated the position of Mrs. Mors and himself at the time he claimed she took her own life.

Calmly and with the swift steps and movements that might have characterized one of his ring battles years ago, the former pugilist enacted the struggle which preceded Mrs. Mors' death.

Dies In His Arms

"She had grabbed the bread knife from the table and I grabbed hold of her as she went to thrust it through her breast," said McCoy, "then suddenly she reached for the gun and before I could stop her it went off. She died in my arms—Tress died like that.

"I didn't know whether she was shot or I at first—I closed my eyes."

Mrs. Mors fired the gun with the thumb of her left hand, the witness said.

Previously McCoy related that Mrs. Mors had thrown her arms

JACK FROST IS CONTINUING HIS REIGN IN STATE

Freezing Temperature May Go as Far South as Central Florida

Virtually the entire country, between the Rocky mountains and the Mississippi river, today was in the grip of zero and sub-zero temperatures, left in the wake of snow and sleet which brought the first real touch of winter to many districts.

Miles of telephone and telegraph wires were down and rail communication was being maintained with difficulty.

Reports trickling into populous centers over crippled wires brought tales of suffering by the cold, but only isolated fatalities had been learned of late today. Two fatal accidents at Butte, Mont., were attributed directly to the storm.

Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Oklahoma and Colorado bore the brunt of the storm.

Forecasts late today told of further cold to come before the storm moves slowly eastward.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 19.—Jack Frost continued his reign in California today, as the cold wave, which brought freezing temperatures to the entire state, remained unbroken.

Chico and Santa Rosa vied for honors as the coldest spot, each reporting a minimum temperature of 19 degrees above zero.

Merced reported 23, Lindsay and Stockton 24, San Bernardino 27, Rockland 28, Fresno 30, Calexico 33 and Los Angeles 39.

Smudging was resorted to throughout the orange growing districts in an effort to save the golden crop.

San Francisco had the same temperature early today as yesterday —37—the coldest in two years.

Ground temperatures of several degrees under those reported to the United States weather bureau were recorded by unofficial thermometers.

The weather bureau today held out no relief from the present severe cold spell when it predicted continued cold for tonight and Saturday, with freezing temperatures throughout California.

Finger Print of Dead Vet Wins Widow Bonus

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 19.—A dead man's finger prints were today dabbed on an uncompleted adjusted compensation blank in order that his family might receive the bonus granted last year to World war veterans. Daniel I. Thomas, ex-soldier, who had filled out his application papers with the exception of finger prints and attestation, was killed in an accident yesterday. Local police and federal officers aided his widow in completing the requirements of the government.

REPUBLICANS GATHER AT DINNER

F. F. Merriam, F. C. Weller, Ralph Arnold, W. E. Evans Among Speakers

Frank F. Merriam of Long Beach, speaker of the state assembly, State Senator A. Burlingame Johnson from Pasadena, Assemblyman Frank C. Weller, Ralph Arnold, chairman of the Republican county central committee, W. E. Evans of Glendale, vice-chairman of the Republican county organization, and John Robert White, Jr., former assemblyman from this district, were among the notable Republican leaders present at the formal launching of the Glendale Republican club last night. All but Mr. White were speakers on the program.

Loyal Republicans of Glendale attended in numbers and roundly applauded the stirring addresses. The formal club launching and rally took place at the Harvard High school following a dinner and reception in honor of the distinguished guests at the Episcopal church guild hall.

Praises Local Men

Great praise for their work in Republican circles in the past was given W. E. Evans, John Robert White, Jr., and H. C. Toll, Glendalians, by Chairman Arnold in his opening address.

"Always, Glendale could be counted upon to vote right, due largely to the efforts of these three men and their associates," Mr. Arnold said.

Mr. Arnold spoke on organization, outlining briefly the four major working units of the Republican party, national committee, state central committees, congressional committees and county central committees. He said that the ninth congressional district, of which Glendale is a part, boasts one of the best organizations in California.

Plan Reapportionment

Reapportionment of the state, so that Southern California will be given just and legal representation in the assembly, will be sought through a vigorous campaign at the forthcoming session of the legislature, Mr. Arnold declared. With reapportionment carried through, Los Angeles will have twenty-five assembly districts instead of the present fifteen.

Co-operation with the county organization, operating through a decentralized system in the different assembly districts, was urged by Chairman Arnold.

Assemblyman Speaks

Vice-chairman Evans extolled the Republican party and dwelt upon its accomplishments since its organization at Bloomington, Ill.,

Abe Lyman Orchestra To Play In Glendale

Announcement is made by J. L. Cornbleth and Irving Robinson, well known in entertainment circles, that they have leased the hall at 333 North Brand boulevard, and will open a high-class ballroom, with dances every Wednesday and Saturday nights. An Abe Lyman combination, to be known as "Abe Lyman's Blue Jays," will play for the dances. The orchestra will consist of seven men playing many novelties in brass, saxophone and clarinet, Mr. Robinson announces.

Mr. Robinson is a musician of considerable reputation, having handled orchestras at many of the big country clubs. His partner in the new enterprise, Mr. Cornbleth, has long been connected with the amusement business. He was personal representative for Max Fisher in Southern California for a long time, and was one of the original owners of Club Royale cafe and the Midnight Frolics. Music and dancing of only the best type are promised by the sponsors of the new Glendale ballroom.

Church Organization Planned On January 4

Arrangements for the organization of the Grand View Community church on January 4 are being completed, according to an announcement by Rev. George W. Thomas, pastor. The formal organization of the church will probably take place at the night service, in order to insure the presence of the ministers who have been invited to conduct the services. Rev. Thomas will organize the church, with the assistance of Dr. Guy W. Wadsworth, executive secretary of the board of church extension; Dr. Hugh K. Walker, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Los Angeles, and Dr. William S. Young, state clerk of the Los Angeles Presbytery. Dr. Walker is also a member of the home mission committee and is especially interested in the Grand View work.

Glendalians to Start Cruise Around World

Mrs. J. Will Johnson of 326 Randolph street, and her niece Miss Edith Lenore Lucas of Pueblo, Colo., will leave Los Angeles harbor Saturday on the Red Star liner "Belgenland," when the ship starts on a 28,000-mile cruise around the world. J. M. Powers of the Atlas Travel bureau states that Southern California will be well represented on the trip, as there are about seventy-five people who will take the trip. Mrs. Johnson is the mother of Alfred R. Johnson of the Suburban Realty Co. Adam C. Polk, Jr., of Pasadena, and well known in Glendale, will also make the cruise and spend a year abroad, combining business and pleasure.

England's unemployment is diminishing.

CITY OFFICIALS GUESTS AT BURBANK

Mayor, Trustees, Department Heads of Neighboring Community Hosts

Glendale officials were banquetted regally last night by Burbank officials. They not only broke bread together, but sang together. It was more like an eisteddfod than a dignified gathering of two municipalities' governing bodies. And to cap the climax, they were entertained by the celebrated Orpheus Four, in a double program of favorite numbers that fairly raised teh rafters of the Stone Inn, Benmar Hills, Burbank, where the affair was held.

"We are gathered here, not to discuss any great problems or projects which may concern our two cities," said Mayor J. C. Crawford of Burbank, who presided, "but, rather, we are assembled in the spirit of fellowship. With Glendale and Burbank aligned and friendly, anything is possible for the development of the wonderful San Fernando valley which lies at our doors. As the only two independent cities of importance in this valley, our destinies are inevitably interwoven, and we have it within our power to direct those destinies to a large accomplishment in the years to come."

Mayor Crawford then declared that the gathering was in reciprocation for the banquet tendered Burbank officials by Glendale officials, at the Egyptian Village, Glendale, a year ago, and which marked the beginning of a closer spirit of friendship and understanding between the two cities.

Lauds Friendship

"Friendship such as this, carried out across this wide land and over the world, would end wars," declared Mayor Spencer Robinson of Glendale, in his reply to Mayor Crawford's informal remarks. "It is a fine, splendid spirit, and warms the heart. Once Glendale had a mania for annexing, but Glendale and Burbank do not need to consolidate. They are already one in spirit and purpose. My only regret is that our departed fellow councilman, Asa Hall, could not have lived to be here tonight."

In tribute to the memory of Councilman Hall, the Orpheus Four sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," and cigars went out, unheeded, while the gathering sat silent and thoughtful, with bowed heads, carried beyond the world by the haunting melody of that majestic song.

The banquet opened with a serenade by the Burbank Municipal band, led by Herbert S. White. The Orpheus Four then sang

Glendale Artist and Writer Are Honored

In the December issue of Overland Monthly, a western magazine founded in 1868 by Bret Harte, Glendale people will find interest because of the reproductions of etchings and pictures by John W. Cotton, Glendale resident; because of a splendid picture of Mr. Cotton in his Glendale studio, and because of an editorial estimate of the magazine "Four," one of whose publishers is H. Thompson Rich, a resident of Glendale and member of the editorial staff of The Glendale Evening News.

The cover of the magazine bears a reproduction of Mr. Cotton's etching "Acoma Pueblo." Turning the pages one finds another etching reproduced, "Pasadena Bridge." On the opposite page is one of Mr. Cotton's aquatints, "Belfry of Bruges." In his estimate of "Four" the editor concludes:

"There is evidence that the countrywide movement away from verse libre in its extreme form is being felt by the editors of Four. There is evidence that their eyes are returning from the intellectual heights and turning to that public, which must be their audience, if audience they are to have. With that ability which is definitely theirs, success for Four is certain if they will but remember that there is an audience. Four will be no longer an experiment."

Glendale Chiropractor Defends Profession

Editor The Evening News—I wish to correct a statement made in the Los Angeles papers, and appearing in The Glendale Evening News, about the attempted extortion from the mayor of Los Angeles by a Dr. Ben Critchlow, chiropractor. Dr. Ben Critchlow is no chiropractor, he has attended a chiropractic college for a short time, without finishing, or receiving a diploma. Neither is he in possession of a chiropractic license. If Dr. Ben Critchlow holds himself out as a chiropractor, he is doing so under false pretense and is violating the existing law.

There are stories circulated at times about chiropractors without any truth or foundation, and I believe are aimed to discredit the chiropractic profession in the eyes of the people. The chiropractors are clean, moral and law-abiding citizens and not holdups or criminals.

Respectfully yours,
DR. ALBERT VACK,
205 East Harvard,
Vice-President of the California State Society of Chiropractic.

CHILD'S WELFARE SHIFTED TO HOME

Parents Are Responsible for Seven-eighths Says State Head of Schools

Seven-eighths of the responsibility for child development was shifted from the public schools to the parents, yesterday, by Will C. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction, in a dramatic address before the opening session of the California Teachers' association. The address was delivered at the Bible institute, Los Angeles, and was heard by scores of Glendale teachers.

"The public schools should not be made catch-alls and carry-alls of human civilization," Mr. Wood said. "Out of more than 8000 hours in the year, the boys and girls are under the care of teachers but 1000 hours. What has become of the responsibility of the parents in American homes?"

Today Glendale city school teachers will attend the session at Bovard hall, University of Southern California, Mrs. Susan M. Dorsey, superintendent of Los Angeles schools, presiding. Glendale Union High school teachers will attend the session at Trinity auditorium, Albert F. Vandegrift, principal of the Belmont High school, presiding. Will C. Wood will address the latter gathering.

Richardson D. White, superintendent of Glendale city schools, and George U. Moyse, principal of the Glendale Union High school, are attending today's sessions of the association and were present in Los Angeles at the sessions held yesterday.

Plan Four Nights of Prayer at Tabernacle

Special services will be held at the Gospel tabernacle on the last four nights of this month, beginning December 28 and ending December 31. Rev. C. H. Chrisman, pastor, announces the services will be called nights of prayer. Dr. J. J. Sims of Toronto, Canada, will speak at the service on Sunday night, December 28, when his subject will be "Evolution and the Bible." On Wednesday night, December 31, the watch night service will be held, also the annual business meeting of the church. The election of church officers will be held and the financial report will be read.

Large aluminum pins that may be used in lacing the Thanksgiving turkey, have been put on the market.

COMMISSION IS SUSTAINED BY COUNCIL

Recommendations Upheld by Officials; Much Routine Work Is Transacted

The City Council yesterday afternoon sustained the recommendation of the City Planning commission in asking the city attorney to draft ordinances creating commercial districts on Glenoaks boulevard, between Sonora and Ruberta avenues, and on Arden avenue from Central to Columbus avenues. The recommendation of the planning body to deny a commercial district on California avenue at Sycamore Canyon road was also sustained, the vote to override losing for want of a majority. Councilman C. E. Kimlin

WE ARE HAPPY—

Because more children are in school than ever before.
Because it is becoming easier to get good audiences for good pictures.
Because more new churches were built this year than last.
Because the world is demanding SOME peace plan.
Because business is beginning to accept the "service doctrine."

THE UNIVERSAL DRAFT

It is quite possible that a universal draft bill will come up at the present session of Congress, for such a bill is being formulated by government authorities and patriotic organizations now. This would provide that capital, material and labor as well as fighting men would be drafted in case of war. The injustice of compelling the able-bodied young men of the nation to serve as fighters at a mere pittance while others grow rich through excessive war profits and war-time wages is apparent to all. Such a law would be the greatest deterrent of war, for when there is no money to be made out of war there is not likely to be war.

William G. Shepard, a former war correspondent, tells in a weekly magazine what the next war will be like. It is possible now, he says, for France to send aircraft over London and release enough poison gas to annihilate the city. The next war will not be declared. The people will know they are at war when they lie choking and writhing and dying a horrible death. As to the horror of this, Mr. Shepard says, let your imagination go as far as it will, and even then it won't go far enough. The only redeeming feature of this kind of warfare is that even the profiteers will not escape. And this, he thinks, will be a great aid in preserving peace.

The proposed plan of drafting all the resources of a nation for its defense should have the support of all the people, not only as a matter of fairness, but as a means of preserving peace.

A NATION OF HIGHBROWS

John J. Tigert of Lexington, Ky., a United States Commissioner of Education, stated in a speech at Indianapolis the other day that the present public school system is raising a nation of highbrows. Education will only accomplish its objective when it builds a nation in which the principles of American idealism are embodied. These are character, culture, citizenship and vocation, whether with hand or brain, paint brush or pen, and health, he said.

Some years ago, before vocational education had been introduced into the schools, the same charge was made. "The public school system is raising a nation of highbrows. The only course given in high school is a college preparatory course. The boy or girl who cannot go to college, who must leave high school and go to work, is wasting his time."

And now that the schools teach everything under the sun, now that the student can elect a course that will give him training in almost any vocation, "either with the hand or brain," the same old criticism crops up.

The present school system may be open to criticism. It is possible that a little more emphasis could be placed upon "character, culture and citizenship" with good results, but the charge that we are "raising a nation of highbrows" scarcely seems to hit the mark.

REORGANIZING FEDERAL BUSINESS

One of the most important suggestions made by President Coolidge in his recent message to Congress in furtherance of his program of economy was that the work of the government should be reorganized, cutting out superfluous departments, consolidating those similar in nature and bringing the business of government to a state of efficiency, thereby eliminating much of the red tape which has always been bound around government activities.

A mere suggestion along this line is not likely to accomplish very much. A bill that embraced this idea, introduced during President Harding's administration, met with opposition because it proposed to consolidate the army and navy departments. Another bill without this feature has been prepared, but, unless it is pushed vigorously, it will meet with defeat, for Congress is not going to take any action that will mean cutting down forces and separating great numbers of friends from the payroll. The people should demand the passage of this measure.

THE GASOLINE TAX

The Standard Oil company objects to the proposed increase in the present 2 cents a gallon gasoline tax on the ground that it is an unfair levy on motorists, as it forces a minority of the people to pay for the improvements that are shared by the people as a whole. Under the new tax proposal the Standard Oil statement says that between 25 and 30 per cent of the people would pay for improvements of obvious benefit to all the rest of the people who pay nothing. Good roads inevitably benefit all. They increase business in towns, enhance property values in the country or wherever they pass.

There is much truth in this contention, but, on the other hand, there is considerable logic in the argument put forth for the gasoline tax, that those who wear out the roads should pay for them. The motorists themselves have in the main thought the 2-cent tax to be fair and just. But there seems to be considerable opposition to an increase in the tax.

STEP TOWARD PEACE

That the United States has decided to participate in the conference on traffic in arms which has been called by the League of Nations and which will meet in Geneva in the spring is a long step forward toward the outlawing of war, it is believed. The acceptance of the United States to join in this conference is in line with the policy of the administration to work with other nations to foster peace while not becoming a member of the League.

Anything that will stop or limit the traffic in arms and munitions is progress toward peace, for this will tend to stop the manufacture of war material by private concerns, and when there is no longer any money to be made from war, everlasting peace will have come.

MOLTING!

Is Crime a Disease?

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Mrs. Mary Hamilton is not only New York's leading police woman, but she is the pioneer in her field and has been able to show how necessary her work is. She has organized a force of one hundred policewomen.

Mrs. Hamilton has some pronounced ideas upon the subject of criminals, and dealing, first hand, with so many of them she ought to be in a position to know. She says that her work, and that of her assistants has more to do with preventing crime than it has in punishment.

"There should be a special medical treatment for criminals," she said recently. "It has taken the horrible Leopold-Loeb murder case to awaken us to the fact that criminals are sick people.

"Every judge should be a trained psychiatrist. Cruel as his fate has been, the little Franks boy's life will not have been given in vain if it will open the eyes of the people to the fact that all crime is the result of diseased mentality, that criminals are sick people and should be treated as such."

She says that some scientists and physicians are awake to this need and consider the whole thing a medical problem, one for psychiatry and pathology rather than for punishment. She calls attention to the fact that we make progress through tragedy. Without terrible accidents, trains would not have safety devices. Once the swinging of the club was the all-encompassing work of the policeman, now prevention is his aim, just as it is that of the policewoman.

We have vaccine for smallpox, and serums for almost everything, only for crime we have not thought of prevention.

Shoplifters, she thinks, are women in disturbed conditions, women whose glands have been seriously impaired. She says we treat adolescent children like so many chairs and tables, we do everything but understand them.

"What we need most of all," she says, "is an awakening, on the part of officials and an awakening on the part of the public as a whole, to the fact that crime is a manifestation of disease, that criminals are sick people and that most of the crimes now being perpetrated would, under a more intelligent organization of society, be partly or entirely prevented."

Horoscope

While Venus is in benefic aspect today, astrologers read many sinister signs in the heavens. Uranus, the Sun, Mars and Jupiter are all adverse.

It is a day in which there may be great mental depression and despondency. Women especially should maintain a positive, cheerful mood.

This should be a fortunate rule for social entertainments of every sort, but while there will be a tendency to indulge in flirtation there is an aspect that warns against trifling with love.

Theaters should find this a most profitable day, making for large audiences and good acting.

For the stage the new year bears brilliant promise that is encouraging to artists, for standards are to be higher.

While this configuration prevails it is well to avoid any business that is in the least important or that hinges on future conclusion.

Under this planetary government the mind is likely to harbor thoughts of disappointment and discontent, for this reason physical activity should be sought.

One of the signs of this last month in the year gives hope that in 1925 there will be an increased regard for human life and widespread prevention of accidents.

It is well today to avoid loans, endorsements, and the incurring of financial obligation while this sway continues

Stimulating foods and beverages should not be taken at this time, for they will probably be especially harmful.

Surgical operations are not well directed by the stars today and should be postponed.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be unusualy careful regarding business matters in the coming year. In love and domestic affairs much happiness is indicated.

Children born on this day may be difficult to manage. These subjects of Sagittarius are likely to be inclined to spend money too freely, but they will be able to earn it without difficulty.

Word 7. Where you find your school lessons.

(Running Down)

Who's Who

The extraordinary achievement of the German zeppelin which crossed the Atlantic some weeks ago has fired the imagination of the whole world, and has elicited admiration for the German people, even among their recent enemies. But in the many laudatory comments here and abroad little has been said of Dr. Karl Arnstein, a Czechoslovakian Jew, who both designed and built that marvel of air flight.

A Berlin correspondent of a Viennese paper contributes a most interesting article about the ZR-3 and its builder. He points out that while the Germans are so proud of the ship that they regard it as a product of their national ability and ingenuity, the builder and designer of this latest zeppelin is an alien resident of German soil, a Jew who came from Prague because in that city his promotion and advancement were sorely handicapped by the anti-Semitic activities.

The builder and designer of ZR-3, born in Prague thirty-seven years ago, was a child of poor parents. There is a remarkable fact connected with Arnstein's career, and that is that the parents of this mathematical genius are deaf-mutes who met each other in an institution for those similarly afflicted. Their three children, however, are perfectly normal.

The zeppelin is not the only thing that this wizard has built. It was also he who laid the foundation for the famous west wing of the great Strassburg cathedral. Arnstein made it possible that the tower, which had been closed for so many years because of fears of collapse, can now be safely used.

Today's Poem

TUJUNGA

Among the hills, severe and tall,
And canyons wide and deep.
Where peace and quiet dwell.
And nature lulls the heart to sleep;
Where flowers wild or tame.
Their fragrance in abundance gives,—
A loving thought,—to still the soul,—
This is where Tujunga lives.

Where tinted skies in luster dies
With early morning light,
And blazing sun at close of day,
A golden ball drops out of sight;
And night or moon, from hills adorned,
The magic fairy bells,
In music sweet, the fancy greet,
Where proud Tujunga dwells.

VELOUR WRAP

LONDON, Dec. 19.—Most people bought their winter coats so long ago that they have tired of them. To meet this demand has been designed an embroidered velour coat so tubelike as to resemble a pillow case. The color, however, is a beautiful shade of russet brown, and it is trimmed with either nutria or marten.

ON EVENING DRESS

PARIS, Dec. 19.—The neck line of one black velvet evening frock shown here starts out with a very modest neck line of the bateau variety, but on either side, an inch below this band, are two deep diamond-shaped cutouts between which dangles a heavy silver ornament on a silver ribbon.

CLOTH OF GOLD

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—No wonder the field of the cloth of gold was famous. Evening frocks of velvet and metal brocade seen at the opera this week give an impression of richness possible to no other materials. One striking dress was of red velvet, with the entire skirt from the hips down a solid mass of gold metal lace.

Speeder Fined $50 In Judge Lowe's Court

Graeme Jobe of Los Angeles was fined $50 yesterday afternoon by Judge Frank H. Lowe of the Glendale police court for speeding. He paid the fine and was released. Jobe was brought into court on a warrant issued after he had failed to appear when cited, following his arrest, November 28, on a charge of making thirty-two miles an hour on Glendale avenue between Wilson avenue and Lexington drive, a twenty-mile zone.

The new $35,000 Union Pacific station at Lexington drive and Geneva street was in full operation today following the formal opening of the new structure yesterday at noon with a dinner in honor of Glendale civic leaders, including Mayor Spencer Robinson, city councilmen and officials of the Union Pacific line.

All freight shipments into the city over the Union Pacific are routed directly to the new station and unloaded and delivered from there. The total length of the new building is 295 feet. It is an average of forty feet in width. Of this a space thirty by ninety feet is taken up by the modern fireproof freight room. The freight platform is thirty by fifty-five feet in dimensions, with an additional open platform thirty-two by fifty feet. Along the track side of the building is provided ample unloading facilities, with a platform 245 feet in length and eight feet wide.

An attractively finished waiting room occupies the front portion of the building facing on Lexington drive. This room is twenty-six by thirty-two feet and will be completely furnished in golden oak. The walls will be decorated with appropriate paintings which have already been ordered.

Five tracks for freight siding while the cars are being loaded or unloaded are provided at the station. This affords ample facilities for the unloading of any amount of shipments which might tax the station under ordinary conditions. The freight yards will be partially paved, according to the present plans.

Materials manufactured in Glendale were, wherever possible, used in the building of the new station. The main construction work is of concrete brick, made by the Concrete Brick & Tile Co. of this city. Work on the new structure was commenced August 25 of this year and virtually completed last Saturday.

Preparedness is a word usually coupled with war. Not so long ago we were hearing it constantly. We wish to use it in that connection also. But instead of declaring war against our fellow man we are declaring war against misfortune and hardships. The years of prosperity are the ones during which to prepare for the days of adversity. When we are making money fast and easy we are very apt to fail to lay some of it aside for that rainy day that is pretty sure to come. Rainy days or hard times do not decrease the earning power of your money if invested in the Gibraltar Finance Corporation, because we are loaning money on real estate securities chiefly. Panicky times do not cripple us. In fact, they increase the demand for money. And, folks, we do not have to carry a large cash reserve to protect us in the event of a financial flurry. Our capital is working all the time. The money we use to loan is not subject to withdrawal on demand. BETTER ENLIST NOW in the ranks of our preparedness company.

ANSWERS TO MOTHERS

Last week I gave you the best foundation for the daily menus for each child. We will review it briefly.

Part 1 consists of the protective foods; one and one-half pints of milk, at least; one full cupful of vegetables (especially green leaf vegetables), part of them raw; one cupful of fruit, part fresh if possible. Part 2 consists of the energy foods; cereals, including whole-grain breads; fats in the form of butter, cream, egg yolks and nuts.

PROTEINS (GROWTH AND REPAIR FOODS)

If he has a pint and one-half to a quart of milk a day, served as a drink and in simple custards or sauces, or cooked in a cereal, he will have 110 to 160 calories in proteins right there, because there are approximately five calories of protein to an ounce of milk. The milk will furnish so much protein, and that of the very best kind, super-complete, that it will be a safeguard for his protein needs.

If he has from three to six slices of whole-wheat bread, this will furnish 48 to 90 calories more, for in a full slice of whole-wheat bread half an inch thick there are 16 calories of protein.

If he has one to two eggs, or one to two rounding tablespoonfuls of cottage cheese, or an ounce or two of lean meat or fish, or nuts or nut butter, he will have from 25 to 72 calories more of protein in these. Other foods will add a little store of protein also.

All of these foods approximate from 200 to 325 calories of protein a day. This is about what an adult needs, and it's all right, for a child needs more in proportion to his weight than an adult. You must remember that a child needs considerable protein for his growth. If there should be a little excess above the minimum requirements, it will be utilized as an energy food.

This shows you that, if you have a minimum of three glasses of milk a day, whole-wheat bread, and one other relatively high-protein food, you need not worry about the protein nor the kind of protein.

CARBOHYDRATES (STARCHES AND SUGARS; ENERGY FOODS)

With the protective foods, mothers, you must see that whole-grain cereals (including bread, macaroni and similar foods) potatoes; and some wholesome, simple desserts, including sweets, such as molasses, honey and jellies occasionally, are furnished your child for his energy foods. He is going to need a lot of them. The amount we'll talk about later. Be sure he gets the proportionate amount of the protective foods before he fills up on the energy foods.

FATS (ENERGY FOODS)

Butter, on account of its growth vitamins as well as its energy value, is the chief free fat that should be given children. Salad oils, especially olive oil, in small amounts, on salads are not objectionable. Butter up to a level tablespoonful for each meal, with that served on the vegetables, is sufficient for the older children. Cream, egg yolks, bacon fat, olives and nuts will furnish them more good fat.

VITAMINS AND MINERAL ELEMENTS

Just here we will say that the vegetables, especially cabbage, tomatoes, spinach and other green leaf vegetables; fruits, egg yolks, butter and milk, are all very high in the vitamins and mineral elements. You know their place in the menu.

WATER

The amount of water needed depends upon the amount of milk and other fluids, watery fruits and vegetables consumed, and the season. Children need a large amount of water. From one to two glasses, depending upon the factors I have spoken of, should be taken regularly between meals.

Tomorrow we will infringe upon the regular Answers to Correspondents to finish our talk on Diet for Children.

TUBERCULOSIS

We have an article on tuberculosis which you may have by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request. Are you buying your share of Christmas seals to help eradicate this disease?

Tomorrow—Answers to Mothers

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s.a.s.e., if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

FACE MASSAGE No. 2

A day or so ago we were saying that the most important thing in massaging the lower part of the face is to keep the muscles around the mouth raised. The most important thing about the upper part of the face is to keep away crow's feet.

The motions for massaging here are very simple. Having finished with throat and chin and the lower cheeks, you take a little more cream on the fingers, bunching them to gether, and begin fresh in the center of the forehead. If there is a bad line between the eyes, one of those straight up and down lines that make a woman look prudish and bad tempered, begin on that. Hold the skin down against the bone with the fingers of one hand, with the other smooth out that line, pressing the wrinkle flat and working in plenty of cream. Repeat with the other hand, and then spread cream with both hands over the forehead, around the outer corner of the eyes and under the eyes to the top of the nose. After a dozen or so strokes, go very, very gently over the eyelids, letting the cream work into the brows and lashes, and then rub down each side of the nose and around the nostrils. Press in against the bridge of the nose and work as much cream as possible into the nostrils where the large pores collect.

That's really all there is to facial massage. Hot, wet towels held for a minute or so over the skin will open the pores to admit the cream. A cloth wrung from warm water rubbed on later will take off the surface cream sufficiently to make powder cling when the massage is over. All massage should be followed by an astringent, the best being a piece of ice rubbed over the face for five minutes, even ten, if the wrinkles are deep and you have used lots of cream first.

A. V. H.—You are probably correct about the weight of the paraffine injections in your cheeks and the best thing to do about it now is to have them removed.

Don't Let Crow's Feet Get the Better of You

Esther M. D.—Sometimes the skin is pale because of a lack of oxygen in the system. Practice deep breathing while you are taking the walks. Sleep out of doors and if that is not possible, open all the windows in your sleeping room.

Jessie T. C.—The marks left from pimples are usually slow in bleaching off the skin, but you will hasten the improvement if you give your complexion good care every day.

Tomorrow—A Chat for Smokers

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question—The Editor.

Church Wedding

Beautiful in all its appointments was the wedding of Miss Alberta Stoddard, of 5158 Highland View avenue, Eagle Rock and Hollis W. Moyse, of 322 East Harvard street, which was solemnized last night, Thursday, December 18, 1924, at 8:30 o'clock at the Methodist Episcopal church, South Pasadena. Rev. B. D. Smudden, pastor of the church performed the ring ceremony in the presence of a large company of relatives and friends.

The church was decorated in green and white. The chandeliers in the church were draped with smilax. White roses, carnations and ferns were banked about the altar forming artistic background for the ceremony. The bride made a pretty picture attired in a dress fashioned of white satin on staight lines and trimmed with white fur. A rhinestone buckle at the side of the dress was the only ornament. She wore for a headdress a white silk tulle veil held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was a bride's shower of white roses, sweatpeas and lilies of the valley. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Davies sang "Oh, Promise me" and "I Love You Truly."

The wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Mr. Ellis, church organist. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played while the bridal party marched from the church. Mrs. H. A. Farnham of Pasadena, acted as matron of honor. She wore a green taffeta dress trimmed with silver, with silver headdress and silver slippers. Her bouquet was a shower of pink sweetpeas and roses. Miss Katherine Barnett of Pasadena was the bridesmaid. Her dress was pink taffeta with gold trimmings. She wore a gold headdress and gold slippers and carried a shower bouquet of lavender sweetpeas. H. A. Farnham of Pasadena was best man. H. K Wood of Glendale, and Harry L. Rhodes of Eagle Rock were the ushers. P. W. Stoddard, father of the bride, gave his daughter in marriage. After the ceremony a reception was held at the church for relatives. A buffet supper was served.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Moyse left for a honeymoon trip. They will make their home in Glendale and will be at home to their friends after January 1. For going away Mrs. Moyse wore a brown ensemble suit with a brown silk spring hat to match. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Stoddard of 5158 Highland View avenue, Eagle Rock and is a graduate of Glendale high school and Pomona college. For the fall term, Mrs. Moyse was a teacher at the Broadway school. The groom is the son of George U. Moyse, principal of Glendale high school and is a graduate of the Glendale schools. He graduated from the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena last June and is now with the Technicolor Film Co. of Hollywood.

Informal Affair

A party of Glendale, Los Angeles and Pasadena friends enjoyed an informal dancing party Wednesday night at the Marigold Gardens, located on the highway beyond Monrovia. Jerry Parker's orchestra of Glendale provided music for the dancing. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Owen, Thomas Staniere, Donald Cowlin, Robert Barnes, Misses Lucile McKee, Marion Gamble, Glendale; Miss Sara MacDonald, Pasadena; Miss Anna Miller and Clark Cross of Los Angeles.

Four Speakers

Members of the Foreign Missionary society of Casa Verdugo Methodist church were especially favored at their meeting yesterday afternoon in the Epworth League room, when they entertained as guests four missionaries from foreign fields. The speakers were Miss Lois Joy Hartung, who is concluding a furlough from her work in the stations of South America; Miss Matilda Spencer of the Glendale sanitarium, who has retired after many years of work in Japan; Mrs. E. H. Wileman of South street, who was engaged in the work in South America for several years previous to coming to Glendale, and Rev. Julius Soper, who spent forty years in Japan. Mrs. E. E. Masters presided. Miss Spencer led the devotionals, choosing as a theme, "The Spirit of Christmas." Miss Hartung transported her hearers on an imaginary trip to South America, giving them interesting accounts of the foreign work at five principal points: the Crandon institute at Montevideo, Uruguay; at Buenos Aires, Brazil; the girls' boarding school and Bible training school, and at Rosario, the Gleason institute. Then across the Andes mountains to Valparaiso, Chile, and Lima, Peru. Special music numbers by the King's Heralds were a solo by Martha Jones and duet by Loraine Masters and Zoannette Lind. After the close of the meeting tea was served.

She was assisted by Mrs. Lillian Montgomery. Included in the program were "Gypsy Dance" (Bohn), Ellen Tronsier; duet, "Valse de Roses" (Ketterer), Bernadine Gilliland and Doris Norton; "Largonaise" (Massanet), by Doris Norton; "Folk Song" (Grieg), "To a Wild Rose" (MacDowell), Lillian Montgomery; "Slumber Song" (Schubert), Jack Stone; "Peacock" (Selected), Ellen Tronsier and Doris Norton; "Cinderella" (Lisher), "Petit Valse" (Chopin), Sherla Williams; "Indian Song" (Marie Pardi), Bernadine Gilliland; duet, "Marionettes" (Von Blom), Bernadine Gilliland and Mrs. Young. The old housekeeper will not need my help in making her mince and pumpkin pies. No doubt she will not bother to read this article—for the experienced home cook has her own favorite ways in pie-baking and, rightly, she sees no reason to depart from a method which she has found "tried and true." But the Bride Housekeeper will perhaps find the following helpful:

Pumpkin Pie: Cut a pumpkin in half, then in quarters and in eighths. Scoop out the seeds and membranes (these are thrown away), and pare off the yellow outside rind. Now cut the eighths in small pieces, put them in a saucepan, cover them with boiling water and let simmer for two hours, when they should be tender. Drain off the water and mash as you would mash potatoes. Measure it by cupfuls. You will need two and one-half cups of mashed pumpkin to make two pies. Put this into a bowl and add two beaten eggs, two tablespoons of flour, four tablespoons of molasses, one cup of sugar, two cups of sweet milk and two-thirds of a teaspoon of ground ginger.

Next, make two under-crusts as follows: Place one and one-half cups of flour in a bowl and work into it, with the fingers, one-half cup of lard. Add one level teaspoon of salt and stir in two-thirds of a cup of cold water. This makes a stiff paste. Toss it onto a floured board and, with a rolling pin, roll it to one-fourth inch in thickness. Dot the pastry with one-half cup of butter broken in small bits (these bits will be close together on the dough), then sift over the butter one-half cup of flour. Fold the dough in from both ends, to form a long roll. Double this roll in the middle to form a square. With a sharp knife cut this square in half. Each half of it makes an under crust for the two pies. Roll each out to the proper size to fit a pie pan (try to roll it into a circular shape) and gently lift it onto a pan. Put one-half of the pumpkin mixture given above into each pastry-lined pan, and slip the pies into a hot oven, then reduce the oven heat to "medium" so that the filling will not boil up and "whey." In all, bake the pies from 40 to 50 minutes.

Mince Pies: Use the above recipe for pie crust, but, as a mince pie has two crusts instead of just an under crust, you will have to double it to make two mince pies. Bottled mincemeat sold on the market is excellent—or use one of the many mincemeat recipes given in this column in the past.

Tomorrow—Fruit Dishes for the Invalid.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman, in care of the "Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

Coldest Wave of Years Hits Colorado City 15 Below Zero

DENVER, Dec. 19.—Denver experienced the coldest weather for several years when the mercury dropped as low as 15 degrees below zero during the early morning hours today.

One man and two children were injured in an explosion when frozen pipes burst, and numerous minor accidents were reported as a result of the extreme cold.

Little relief from the cold wave was promised by the weather man for today.

Wyoming, New Mexico and Montana continued in the grip of extremely low temperatures, but snow had ceased falling in the mountain region.

Fire Chases Sleepers

The lives of scores of persons were endangered early this morning when tenants of a South Broadway apartment in Denver were forced to flee into sub-zero weather in scanty attire when fire was discovered in the building. The fire was quickly controlled but many of the tenants suffered from exposure. The sleepers were awakened to find the rooms and corridors filled with smoke and fled to the street where the thermometer registered 10 degrees below zero.

DR. L. A. FERRIS IS SPEAKER AT CLUB

Urges Better Understanding In Business World as Necessity Today

Dr. Lincoln A. Ferris, pastor of the First Methodist church, addressed Glendale Optimists' club today at noon pleading with the Optimists to forsake "the blessed contentment of localized littleness" to which humanity is prone, and seek out a greater and broader understanding and conception. In this way, he declared, man can do his work better and happier. World citizens who think in terms of nations, not villages, are a great necessity of the age," Rev. Ferris said.

At the conclusion of his address, Rev. Ferris was invited to become an Optimist and serve as chaplain of the local club. He accepted the invitation, relieving Rev. Harry I. Rasmus who has asked to be relieved because of press of other affairs.

J. C. McGibbon, a visitor at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. R. Boyer, rendered several vocal solos. He was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Boyer.

The part to be taken by the Optimist in assisting in the financing of Glendale's float in the Pasadena New Year's day parade, will be decided by a joint committee after the matter has been taken up with other service clubs of the city.

Peter Hanson and L. E. Olson will be representatives of the Optimist club on the committee of twenty to take up equalization of assessment with the county supervisors.

The civics committee of the club will lay plans for cooperating with the Chamber of Commerce and other luncheon clubs in a drive to "clean up Glendale." Irving H. Oliver was appointed to cooperate with the Chamber of Commerce in planning a football banquet for members of the Glendale High school teams in the name of the club. The meeting was at the Masonic temple. There will be a meeting next Friday, the day following Christmas, as usual.

YOUNG JAP SEEKS BANCROFT'S LIFE

Son of Priest Is Arrested At Old U. S. Embassy On Suspicion

TOKIO, Dec. 19.—Bunki Aikawa was arrested in the vicinity of the old United States embassy today when police learned he was seeking United States Ambassador Edgar A. Bancroft.

Aikawa, 22, son of a priest, approached the former embassy compound and demanded an interview with Bancroft. When police arrested and searched him they found he was carrying a dagger. After an investigation it was claimed by police that Aikawa previously had tried to buy a bomb. Ambassador Bancroft was not in the vicinity of the old compound and was not menaced in any way.

Aikawa was turned over to the alienists for examination, police believing him to be insane. In demanding an interview with Ambassador Bancroft, Aikawa said the recent attitude of the United States in the immigration controversy was "contrary to international courtesy" and intimated he would make "demands" upon the ambassador.

BRITISH GOLF TOGS

LONDON, Dec. 19.—British women take their golf too seriously for frivolous costumes, such as knickers, as a general rule, but at a recent fashion show one model expressed itself in gay yellow plaid kasha with touches of moss green. A pleated tunic reached almost to the knees revealing glimpses of breeches beneath, while neat golf stockings were fully revealed below.

IOWANS ASSURED HOME-MINED COAL

Miners In State Join Forces With Owners to Boost 'Soft' Product

DES MOINES, Iowa, Dec. 19.—Iowa coal miners have joined forces with mine owners in a campaign to keep home fires burning this winter with home-mined coal. Incidentally, the men who do the actual labor of production not only hope to extend the market for Iowa coal, but to take mine labor out of the "seasonal occupation" class in the Hawkeye state. And they're willing to put up part of their hard-earned wages to turn the trick.

They are splitting campaign expenses fifty-fifty with the mine owners.

Iowa's Coal "Soft"

All of Iowa's coal is "soft." Neighboring states, producers of semi-anthracite and other "hard" fuels, have used this fact in their efforts to compete with the Iowa product, advertising their coal as "clean and sootless."

"What's soot compared with dollars?" ask the Iowa miners and operators, sending out an army of poster men to stick their slogan —"Use Iowa Coal"—on the windshield of every automobile whose owner isn't looking.

The miner-owner combination is carrying on extensive newspaper advertising—splitting fifty-fifty on the costs—educating coal users on heat units, freight rates and other things that enter into the competition between Iowa coal and "foreign products."

NOW SEAT CANES

PARIS, Dec. 19.—Cane seats may not represent a late furniture fashion, but nothing is newer or smarter than seat canes. The English habit of carrying canes the handles of which spread into comfortable stool seats has extended to the continent, and attendants of sporting events nowadays are almost universally equipped with such adjuncts to comfort.

Glendale Evening News Is First With the Latest

Readers of The Glendale Evening News should make a comparison of their home town paper with the Los Angeles morning papers and note that they get the news FIRST in The Glendale Evening News.

Reviewing a Los Angeles morning paper today, it is found that—

The leading telegraphic story regarding the Albanian flare-up appeared as the lead-story in last night's Evening News.

The leading state story told of Congressman Julius Kahn's death. That was reported in last night's Evening News.

The leading sports story denied Ban Johnson is to resign as American league chieftain. Davis J. Walsh told Evening News' readers that last night.

The leading local Los Angeles stories in this morning's paper, robberies by gangs of bandits in outlying towns, the tampering with the McCoy jury, and other events during the day, were covered by The Glendale Evening News.

The local Glendale story printed by the morning's paper briefly told of plans for school bonds which were given four columns' space in last night's Evening News.

One of the leading editorials in this morning's paper quoted an article published in The Glendale Evening News two weeks ago—L. C. Owen, Consolidated Press association correspondent, being named.

And the leading market page story of the morning paper dwelt upon the market operations of W. C. Durant, which were subject of a special feature story in The Glendale Evening News last night.

The Glendale Evening News is FIRST with the LATEST.

And it is no criticism of another newspaper to point to superiority, particularly when one considers the fact that The Glendale Evening News is published in a city of 50,000 and the morning paper comes from a city of a million population.

However, there are few suburban newspapers boasting the International News Service leased wire, Consolidated Press association dispatches and other special services.

Frisco To Pay Homage To Late Julius Kahn

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 19.—San Francisco will pay homage to Julius Kahn Saturday. On that day the body of the legislator who served the city and state in the House of Representatives for twenty-four years and who was head of the committee on military affairs, carried on successfully the fight for conscription in the early war days, will lie in state in the rotunda of the city hall.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at Temple Emanuel at 11 a. m., the body being escorted there by a military procession. Pallbearers will be detailed from the Presidio and a score of the city's most prominent citizens will act as honorary pallbearers.

Gobs Promised Squint At Volcano In Action

HONOLULU, Dec. 19.—Every sailor man who visits Hawaii next spring, in connection with the maneuvers to be staged in these waters, will have an opportunity to see the world-famous volcano of Kilauea. This is the promise of Admiral Robert E. Coontz, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, who recently completed a preliminary inspection of island ports. Experts predict volcanic activity, commencing within a few months.

F. Priest, Robert T. Philp, Ray Galvin, George Lyons and William C. Winkler acted as tellers.

Balloting for officers and directors of the club was limited, under the rules and regulations of the order, to members who had paid all dues and assessments in full.

Present officers of the club are: A. L. Baird, president; Dr. T. C. Young, first vice-president; A. W. Perry, second vice-president; Herman Nelson, treasurer; D. H. Webb, secretary; A. L. Ferguson, district trustee. They will serve until January 1, when the officers elected today assume charge of the club affairs.

Present Directors

Directors for 1924 were: William Bode, S. W. Brown, Lyman P. Clark, Frank Echols, Frank L. Fox, E. O. Keifer, W. L. Truitt, and officers of the club.

Dr. T. C. Young, chairman of the finance committee of the Glendale float in the Tournament of Roses at Pasadena, distributed blanks for subscriptions toward the fund of $2000 needed to decorate the float. The members subscribed $250.50 toward the fund. William Horn suggested that the members of the police and fire departments be invited to attend a club luncheon so the members can become acquainted with them.

President Baird announced the next zone meeting would be held at Tujunga on the night of December 29. The final meeting of the present board of directors will be held December 26 at the Oakmont Country club. President Baird announced. He outlined the concert of the Wales Men's chorus to be sponsored by the Kiawnis club at the Broadway High School on January 26.

Donate Holder

Emil Keifer, who donated the silent boost, received the thanks of the members for the useful gift he had provided. Mr. Keifer's contribution was a leather holder for automobile registration certificate and each member of the club received one.

Copies of "The Glendalian," the new weekly publication sponsored by merchants and residents of the east section of the city, were distributed by E. M. Ingledue, editor of the latest addition to papers in Glendale.

The attendance prize, donated by William Court, was won by E. P. Hayward. J. Arthur Myers directed the community singing with Mrs. George Lyons at the piano.

The meeting next week will be held at the Oakmont Country club, it was decided at today's meeting. N. C. Hayhurst, coach of the high school, spoke on the football game tomorrow between Glendale and Compton.

50 Children Guests of Young People's Club

Fifty children were guests last night at a chicken dinner and Christmas tree, given by the young people's department of the Central Christian church. Miss Ona McConnell, president, and Fred Leggitt, superintendent of the department, with committees arranged the affair. Harley B. Yakel was Santa Claus, presenting dolls, candies and books to the children. Readings were given by Jean and Junior Fitch, and piano solos by Miss Florence Heacock.

Glendalians Find Lake Blanketed With Snow

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore H. Menk of 143 South Isabel street, accompanied by Miss Bess Aldrich and Mr. Bailey, spent yesterday at Lake Arrowhead, and found fourteen inches of snow. Their car was the first through the snow. They reported roads good considering the heavy blanket of snow.

GAITERS AGAIN

LONDON, Dec. 19.—Gaiters. They do not sound so attractive, but wait until you see the winter sport costume they go with. It consists of cap, sweater with a scarf collar, knickers and a kilt. The latter garment cannot possibly be termed a skirt, as it is not knee length. The combination is worked out in the most attractive shades of white and cherry red.

Republicans Gather At Big Club Dinner

in 1856. The great five-to-one Coolidge victory in Glendale two months ago, declared the speaker, places this city at the top in the Republican column of municipalities.

Assemblyman Weller predicted the passage of the constitutional amendment providing for national supervision of child labor, but declared he was doubtful whether sufficient strength can be mustered against bay district and Northern California assemblymen to secure victory for reapportionment. Assemblyman Weller is a hard worker in the Republican organization and has the confidence of the party leaders.

State Senator Johnson launched into a spirited defense of political parties and politicians. He declared that a country governed by parties is the only safe kind of republic, that strict democracy has always been a failure and that only the representative form upon which the United States government has been built can endure. Only in a representative government with two parties can responsibility be directly placed. Senator Johnson deplored the third party movement, charging it would create a minority rule wihch would not be the voice of the people.

Lauds Governor

In conclusion, the speaker praised the program of economy carried out by Governor Friend W. Richardson for California and predicted that the governor would save $5,000,000 during the coming year and in turn would refund it to the people through reduced taxation.

In the main address, Speaker Merriam pointed to opportunities for good work which exist for the Glendale Republican club. Never has the need of a stabilizing influence been so keenly felt as at present, never have such strong and organized agencies been at work attacking the foundation of the government, the constitution and the supreme court, he declared.

He urged the club use its powers in stimulating the interest of voters and advocating a large per cent vote. Speaker Merriam pointed out that since the opening of the twentieth century a steady decline in political interest has been shown in the decreasing vote cast. The recent election has been the only exception, he said.

University Prize

Mr. Merriam predicted the passage of the child labor amendment during the coming session of the legislature which starts January 5. In conclusion he spoke briefly of the proposed relocation of the University of California, Southern Branch. He declared the university was a prize well worth any community's while to seek. Within three years the school will have 8000 students, he said, and in ten years will boast an enrollment of 12,000.

President Person, in calling the meeting to order, gave a brief outline of the aims and objects of the Glendale Republican club. He told of the insistent demand for some strictly local political organization and the needs for such an organization which led to its formation. The club has been brought into being for service, he declared, and to engage in the big commendable things of politics. Referring to the club's participation in local municipal politics, President Person said the membership would have the opportunity to determine the organization's course as matters arose to warrant a decision.

"Politics, like charity, should begin at home in my estimation," he declared.

A full list of the standing committee members will not be announced until some time next week, Mr. Person stated, when the list will be published in The Glendale Evening News. The next meeting of the club will be in January when E. W. Martin, former congressman from Black Hills, Iowa, who is visiting here, will be the main speaker.

State Legislators Are Honor Guests At Dinner

Seventy-five members of the Glendale Republican club, their wives and guests paid honor to state legislators at a dinner and reception which preceded the formal launching of the club at a rally at the Harvard High school last night. Guests of honor were Frank F. Merriam of Long Beach, speaker of the assembly; State Senator A. Burlingame Johnson of Pasadena, Assemblyman Frank C. Weller of Glendale and Miss Ida Koverman, executive secretary of the County Central committee. Wives of the legislators accompanied them.

The dinner and reception in the guild hall of the Episcopal church was of a strictly informal nature with the club members and guests grouped about small individual tables accommodating from six to a dozen persons each. There was no speaking program during the social hour which lasted from 6:30 until 7:30 o'clock. Following the dinner the assemblage adjourned to the Harvard High school auditorium where community singing under the direction of J. Arthur Myers was enjoyed until 8 o'clock, when the speaking program commenced.

Dinner Guests

Among those attending the dinner-reception in honor of the legislators were W. E. Evans, John Robert White, jr., Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Adams, R. S. Person, A. T. Cowan, Col. James W. Everington, Col. and Mrs. John D. Fraser, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward, Judge and Mrs. Frank H. Lowe, W. H. Armstrong, H. M. Hanson, W. D. Bowen, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Cornett, Dr. T. A. COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Comes now the question of last minute Christmas gifts for friends in the east. May not the writer suggest that you send them The Glendale Evening News for a year?

Frankly speaking, it is not profitable for The Glendale Evening News to send its issues outside of the immediate trade territory of this city, yet it will do more to bring people here than letters you can write, pictures you could duplicate for the same price, or all the literature available about Glendale.

The Glendale Evening News tells a daily story of this city's marvelous growth. It is a newspaper of which the people in this community are proud. It is a most acceptable gift for those who have lived here and perforce must remain away.

Subscribe to The Glendale Evening News for your friends and send them a note telling of the gift. It will be most satisfactory.

Because of congestion in Los Angeles many people in the environs of the metropolis are finding that Glendale stores are equal to those "downtown" with the result that the merchants here are getting trade they never dreamed existed.

When you consider that close to 100,000 people live in an area accessible to Glendale there is no reason why business shouldn't be good. It is, as the advertising columns of The Glendale Evening News indicate.

Rev. C. A. Cole has called attention to the very improper use of "Xmas" as a substitute for "Christmas" in headline writing. His criticism calls to mind that editors do not like the term any better than preachers, but it must be pointed out for the benefit of those who know nothing about editing that mechanical factors control the situation.

To be specific, the so-called "top head" used on the first page of The Glendale Evening News has a count of ten and one-half average letters to the column. The word Christmas counts exactly nine average letters which will combine only with the words "is," "in," and "if." "Yuletide" with seven and one-half letters can be substituted in some instances where the combination will permit. Unfortunately, "Christmas" is a word that must be abbreviated in many instances or left out of headline entirely. And while "Xmas" is a poor substitute, "Krismas" or "Ch'mas" would be more objectionable, the writer believes.

In the speed with which a daily newspaper is assembled, considered by those who are mechanics as a modern miracle, it is impossible to avoid situations which call for such abbreviations as "L. A." for Los Angeles, "Cal." for California, although there are synonyms for them such as "Angel City" and "State."

One cannot help agreeing with Rev. Cole that wherever the space permits "Christmas" should be spelled out.

MONTROSE NOTES

MONTROSE, Dec. 19.—The sound of happy children's voices filled the Montrose Community church Wednesday afternoon when the school children gave their first Xmas program. Old Mother Goose of nursery days fame, was present with all her fairy tale people to visit Santa Claus as he waited their arrival around a brilliantly trimmed Xmas tree. The little folk who impersonated the old time characters in the Mother Goose visit were: Mother Goose, Emily Brombacher; Mrs. Santa Claus, Margaret Prescott; Red Riding Hood, Elizabeth Judge; Boy Blue, William Johns; Bo-Peep, Margaret Wood; Jack Horner, Gerald Hooper; Old Mother Hubbard, Bessie Poush; Old Woman Who Lived in the Shoe, Claire Stockwell; Jack, Bennie Ferguson; Jill, Margaret Swartz; Santa Claus, Clarke Salsbury and the Queen of Hearts, Virginia Tucker. The children were applauded for their clever work. As guests of honor the pupils of Mrs. Eichbauer's private school added to the program by giving their delightful little play "The Doll's Wish."

A far cry from Mother Goose land was the play entitled "Xmas In All Lands." The following children were in costume: Gypsies, Mildred Hunt and Emily Brombacher; Japanese, Elizabeth Brown and Margaret Prescott; Philippinos, Elonore and Geraldine Enytterbrouck; Dutch, Llywolf Johns, Marvel Latimer; Indians, Glen Sanderson, William Urquidez, Gwen Hunt; Hindustan, Alice Strans, Jack Mansergh; Chinese, Helen Stover, Christine Wheaton; Spanish, William Van Deusen, Virginia Howard; French, Judith Young; Ireland, Eudice Pruett, Richard Reinhardt; Eskimo, Coit Chrisman, Virgil Collins; English, Olive Knox; Scotch, Jack Fraser, Faith Rookas and Authula Strong; Americans, Kieth Young, Tom Berry and Harry Parker. Montrose is the only school in the county of Los Angeles that can boast of a Philharmonic Orchestra of children none of whose ages exceed 7. The band leader, Virgil Collins, brave in a blue uniform with gold braid and buttons created quite a furore with his conducting. The young Sousa is not yet 7 but his poise and sense o frhythm are remarkable in one so young. La Crescenta school orchestra also played. After the program members of the Montrose P. T. A. assisted the teachers in distributing bags of popcorn and candy. Mrs. Frank Turmer and her children from her Kiddy Garden school were guests of the Montrose school.

Mark S. Collins who so generously offered a gift of $50 to the La Crescenta Girl Scouts with the understanding the residents of the valley raise a like sum, has now set a time limit on the donation. If the other $50 is not raised by the first of the year Mr. Collins will withdraw his offer. The Girl Scouts who are not allowed to beg or solicit subscriptions are asking the unsolicited help of the interested valley people. Mr. Collins' object in making the gift was to assist the Scouts to get together the nucleus of a sum for the summer camping trip. There are now thirty-two members of the troop, the whole responsibility of which rests with Scout Captain Jessie Hansen. She takes charge of the girls on their hikes and camping trips.

Glendale Sciots band will furnish the music on Saturday night when the members of the Angelus Forest Protection association give their first dance in the Fowler building, Verdugo City. Members of the Woman's club will be present to serve the refreshments donated by them. It is expected a large crowd will be present.

'I Love You' Dobinson Players' Future Play

"Only 38" the comedy which the Dobinson Players are presenting for the last three times this week at the club playhouse, is recommended to every father, mother, and grown son and daughter in Glendale. It tells a good story cleverly, and holds the interest to the final curtain. The players do fine work. The cast includes Gertrude Kelkar, George C. Pearce, William H. Stephens, Mary Isabelle Alpaugh, Richard Ehlers, Thyra Ruhland, Gertrude Rothe and Olaf Hytten.

"I Love You" will be the next attraction at the playhouse beginning December 24, with Joseph McManus in the leading role.

Society Girl Is Named In Death of Salesman

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 19.—The body of Charles G. Rogers showed a "black and blue" right eye when he was carried to New Haven hospital on the night of November 1, according to the testimony of two internes today before the board of inquiry here investigating the mysterious death of the young bond salesman who was found with a "fractured skull" in an automobile driven by Miss Marjorie Schneider, New Haven society girl. The two witnesses, Dr. W. S. Clark and Dr. Howard Dawson, declined to answer the question as to whether the discolored eye was due to a fight.

Aged ninety-two, Miss N. Duckworth has lived in the same house in Croston, Ireland, for ninety-one years.

TUJUNGA NOTES

TUJUNGA, Dec. 19. — Mrs. Mary Mills is the first woman member of the home owners' department of the Tujunga Valley Realty board. Mrs. Mills was enrolled at the regular meeting of the board this week. Zoning ordinances, broker's licenses and educational methods were subjects of discussion by the realtors present at the meeting.

The committee in charge of raising $600 for the Boy Scout budget for 1925 reports progress.

A dividend of 2 per cent has been declared by the directors of the Tujunga Valley bank. The stockholders of record of December 31, 1924, will be eligible to payment, which will be made January 1.

Holy communion will be given next Sunday at 11 o'clock at the Episcopal church. Christmas morning there will be special services at 11. A choral service with special music will be given Sunday, December 28. A Christmas tree entertainment will be held in the basement of the church New Year's Eve. A watch night service will also be held New Year's Eve. Friday, December 19, the Guild will meet all day.

Community singing under the direction of the Tujunga Parent-Teacher association has been postponed until after the holiday season.

A son recently was born in a Los Angeles hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Brunner.

Sunland 13 is the telephone number for reporting fires in the Tujunga-Sunland district.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at Forest Lawn chapel for Miss Mary Lewis, for several years financial secretary of the Community church. Miss Lewis died Monday after a brief illness. Rev. Pasko conducted the services.

A lengthy discussion of the incorporation project at Sunland consumed most of the time at the last meeting of the Valley Center Improvement league. E. W. Morgan resigned as secretary to the league and as a member of the Boy Scout committee. George Shaffer was appointed secretary and the vacancy on the committee will probably be filled at the meeting this week. Several new members were accepted. Earl Neumire gave a talk in favor of incorporation, which is now being promoted in Sunland. A card index system of classifying the sentiments of voters in relation to the incorporation question has been made by Mr. Neumire. Women of the league served refreshments.

XMAS GREETINGS IN SECURITY BANK

Glendale Institution Will Give Employes One Month's Salary

Christmas greetings in substantial form are coming to the forty-four employes of the Glendale Branch of the Security Trust & Savings bank, it was announced today by Vice-President R. F. Kitterman.

At a meeting of the board of directors it was voted to present a full month's salary to all employes. The bonus will be paid before Christmas. Fourteen hundred Security employes are to share in this Christmas gift.

Acting further, the directors voted to pay the regular six months' interest to the savings depositors before Christmas. This means that close to $2,500,000 will be divided among 192,000 people in time to help with the Christmas shopping if so desired. Of the 192,000 people who are Security depositors, nearly 3700 are residents of Glendale.

Carrying the Yuletide spirit still further, a quarterly dividend of $4.50 a share was announced. Two thousand people, not a few of whom live in Glendale, will share in this 18 per cent dividend.

GET BATHING TOYS

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—The maid who is determined to have her picture in the rotogravure section of the home paper during the time she is in Florida this winter is already assembling her bathing suits. A selection is necessary, for some beaches bar the one-piece suit and others regard the skirted models as relics of 1864.

FLEET AGAIN BRINGS JAPS TO FRONT

Oriental Foreign Minister Denies Visit By U. S. Ships Declined

By LUTHER A HUSTON
For International News Service.

TOKIO, Dec. 19. — Foreign Minister Shidehara this afternoon denied that Japan had declined American overture to send the American fleet to Japan following its Hawaiian maneuvers.

"The government cannot decline a proposal which has not been made," the foreign minister said. "The story has no foundation in fact."

Premier Kato, speaking at a political meeting, had previously said the United States had suggested sending its naval squadron to Japan following its fleet practice there next spring so as to calm Japanese suspicions.

Japan, according to Kato's speech, replied that the animosity against the maneuvers in Japan was negligible and it was unnecessary to send the fleet to Japan.

Coolidge Pays Tribute To Congressman Kahn

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—President Coolidge today sent the following message of condolence to Mrs. Julius Kahn, widow of the California Congressman:

"Your husband's death has caused mourning wherever his splendid service to his country was known. It was his fortune to possess the talents and the opportunity to do uncomparable work in connection with our country's participation in the World war. His place among the public men of his time is assured. I send you the deep sympathy and condolences of Mrs. Coolidge and myself in your great sorrow."

Gambler Tries to 'Fix' McCoy Jury Is Charge

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 19.—Arrest of a Spring street gambler was expected hourly here today in connection with the attempt to "fix" Kid McCoy's murder trial jury, according to investigators for the district attorney's office.

That a coast-wide gambling "trust" attempted to "frame" the jury and offer odds of 10 to 1 that the former ring idol would go free was the belief of the authorities.

Private Yacht of Rich Silk Man Suspected

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—An investigation into the firing upon and boarding of the private yacht of H. H. Belding, millionaire silk manufacturer, by customs agents who suspected the vessel was a rum runner, has resulted in vindication for the customs officers, according to a report filed with the secretary of the treasury today by the special treasury investigators.

Killer of 27 And Aide To Die by Guillotine

HANOVER, Germany, Dec. 19.—Fritz Haarmann today heard the jury's answer to his plea for speedy death. It was a sentence to die by the guillotine for both the attic ogre and his vulture accomplice, Hans Grans. Haarmann was found guilty of 27 murders with which he was charged. Grans was held guilty of instigation of one murder and as accessory in a second.

Newspapermen's Lives Endangered by Fascist

CARRARA, Italy, Dec. 19.—The lives of newspaper correspondents were endangered today when Fascist quarrymen attacked them. The quarrymen had gone on strike but were not successful. The hotel where the newspaper men were staying was stormed by a gang of quarrymen. Several correspondents were flogged and one was wounded in the disturbance.

fought with hundreds of thousands of smudge pots, and today it was reported that apparently every section had escaped serious damage to lemon and orange crops. The loss is very small.

In some places in the south temperatures of as low as 27 degrees above zero were reported during the night.

Encouragement was given to the growers who have kept ceaseless vigil by the announcement of the United States weather bureau here that warmer temperatures are expected tonight and tomorrow. Except for a brief period this morning, nearly all points reported slightly higher temperatures last night than was the case the previous night.

Vegetable Crop Not Seriously Damaged, Claim

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 19.—Despite freezing temperatures in all its valleys last night, San Diego county escaped serious damage to its citrus and other fruit crops. Only a few vegetables and tender green growths were at all damaged, Weatherman Blake said this morning. At El Cajon the thermometer dropped to twenty-nine degrees, and at Escondido, in the heart of the citrus district, to thirty-one degrees, but the cold did not maintain long enough to do serious damage.

In the mountain districts from two to eight inches of snow fell. In San Diego the temperature dropped to forty degrees, a low record for the year with the exception of last January 3 when thirty-nine degrees was recorded.

35 Degrees Below Zero At Truckee Last Night

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 19.—The cold snap in Northern and Central California will break tomorrow morning, the United States weather bureau office predicted here today.

Tonight the mercury will drop below the low mark last night, which averaged twenty-five degrees in the northern counties and twenty-two degrees on the ground, weather bureau officials said.

At Truckee last night the mercury dropped to thirty-five degrees below zero in the coldest spell recorded there in recent years.

around his neck and begged him not to go to New York, as he had planned. He said Mrs. Mors, greatly depressed because of his expected departure, had told him she could not remain away from him.

Kisses and Tears

As he related in his original story, told to police after his arrest, the defendant described graphically how he rained kisses and tears on his sweetheart's face, when she died as he held her.

He said he then seemed to become "half crazy," taking three or four large drinks of whiskey. He washed the blood from his hands and face, where it had fallen when he caressed Mrs. Mors as she died, McCoy testified, and placed a photograph of himself in the dead woman's hands, after covering the body with a table cover.

LABOR STATUS WITH DEATH OF CHIEF

Noted Political Writer Asks Will Policies of Sam Gompers Live

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright 1924.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Will the policies of Samuel Gompers live after him?

American labor's answer to that question does not depend so much on who is chosen as president of the American Federation but upon the circumstances both political and economic which in the last four years weighed so heavily on the veteran leader.

Few people know the inside politics of the American Federation of Labor, its class of viewpoints between moderates and extremists, and few people know that it was by sheer force of personality that Samuel Gompers restrained his own lieutenants. Ever since the war the Gompers policy has been one of prevention and when the federation endorsed La Follette it was Gompers who thought that very act would find its own remedy. For he was against the organization of a labor party in politics though he was constantly pressed from within to join the railroad brotherhoods in an effort to wield the maximum political influence.

In recent years, Mr. Gompers found the brotherhoods a powerful ally, but a somewhat vexations one, because the policies of the two groups frequently were opposite. Samuel Gompers, however, felt more the need of presenting a united front for labor than to reconcile even fundamental sacrifices between the brotherhoods and the American Federation of Labor.

Can Union Hold?

The problem that now comes up may affect the entire labor situation for years to come. Will this cohesive power be held together, or will the labor groups be divided and even work against each other? Capital would profit by such a situation, even as labor would lose. Yet the current of dissension is strong and only a Gompers can keep labor united.

Even a Gompers, however, has to have a favorable atmosphere. The last year saw the Gompers policy of harmony tried to the utmost. For the sake of harmony inside the ranks, he agreed to permit the American Federation of Labor to endorse the La Follette candidacy. He had the cunning of a practical politician and even those who bitterly criticized his occasional waverings and even reversals knew that with Gompers the end justified the means and that he usually was vindicated.

For many years as Gompers has been advancing toward the end of his career, the leaders of the labor movement have been discussing what would happen when he left. It had not been unlike the discussion of 20 years ago as to what would happen to the loosely constructed Austro-Hungarian monarchy when Franz Joseph died. Predictions have been made that the American Federation of Labor would split off into two groups—the conservatives and radicals.

Division Already

There is no doubt that within the federation there is already such a sharp division but it was the Gompers' policy to yield a point here and there to the radicals and thus keep labor's power unimpaired. Will his successor be able to do it even if he follows the same policy?

The test may not come at once, for just now there is no extraordinary period of presperity or inflation. Unemployment is not altogether removed as a factor and immigration restriction is not yet accomplishing all that labor set out to achieve. The real troubles usually occur in a time of inflation and shortage of labor when higher and higher wages are demanded.

Politically Samuel Gompers leaned toward the Democratic party. He was a powerful influence in the Wilson administration, an experience, however, which tended to make him more and more a conservative, for he was often given the responsibility for settling a troublesome situation, something that put him on the defensive. But Samuel Gompers was not able to deliver the labor vote in elections, valiantly as he tried.

His was a rule over labor leaders and not the rank and file, although he had thousands of admirers in the local unions from coast to coast. He had a knack with the leaders. He showed them often how they could retain power. He taught them labor politics. It was to his interest to do so. The longer the chieftains stayed on the job, the stronger was the political organization working for Gompers inside the American Federation of Labor. They were proud, too, of the position he won in the public eye, the forcefulness of his public statements and his keen understanding of the changing currents of public opinion.

When some of the employes of the Washington navy yards, for example, implored him to act in their behalf and keep labor from mixing up in the movement to reduce armaments.

Gompers was not dissuaded, but gave his hearty support to the proposals of President Harding and even agreed to sit as a member of the advisory commission. He felt that labor, which had always argued for world peace, could not be inconsistent and that in the long run labor would benefit through the expanded commerce and shipping of peace time prosperity.

Questions like these, conflicts between administration policy and labor's objectives frequently happen. There is always a straining at the leash on the part of the radicals. Gompers has gone. Will his philosophy be adopted by labor leaders or will they begin the inevitable quarreling which characterizes minority groups? The death of Gompers is not merely the passing of an individual. It is a critical point in the labor history of America.

Five Miles of Water Pipe In Lake Section

The completion of five miles of water piping in the Lake and Western avenue district is announced by Peter Diederich, superintendent of plant and production. There are two miles of twelve-inch, one and one-half miles of eight-inch, and the balance in six-inch and four-inch pipe. City water is now available throughout that section of Glendale lying west of Grand View avenue and south of the Southern Pacific tracks, he said today. Erection of ornamental street lighting standards on Glendale avenue is proceeding rapidly, and the job should be completed within six weeks, Mr. Diederich adds, while the conduit for street lights on Central avenue is in and the standards are on the way. Both the Glendale avenue and the Central avenue jobs call for Union Metal standards.

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 19.—Revocation of the treaty of commerce and navigation between Britain and Japan as it affects Canada, was demanded by unanimous vote of the British Columbia legislature. William Sloan, provincial secretary pointed to the alarming growth of Asiatic population in the past seventeen years and indicated by statistics how serious the peaceful penetration of the province by Japanese and Chinese has become.

POSTAL BOOST PROBLEM TO CONGRESS

Where to Get Funds Is Big Question That Retards Action

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent of the Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Had the administration been able to command enough votes to sustain the veto message on the postal pay bill, there would have been a vote on the measure before this. Two votes are lacking so the administration leaders in the senate by parliamentary maneuvers have been able to prevent a vote from being taken, though in the next 48 hours they may be compelled to permit the vote and therefore their efforts will center in the House of Representatives.

The administration has a strong enough argument to appeal ordinarily to its party in congress and if the bill is passed over the president's veto it will be a sign that the last election has taught very little about the value of party leadership. Many a member of the senate and house was willing enough to lean on the Coolidge pillar of political strength to win his own election and now the president is trying to hold his party in line by virtue of that strength which he has with public opinion and which he may have two years hence in the congressional election.

Mr. Coolidge makes it clear in his talks with the men of cap'tol hill that he favors the increase in postal pay but that he wants to make sure the funds are forthcoming before there is an authorization to spend. But the proposition is not even as simple as that, for one would say off-hand the postal service ought to be self supporting. The rub comes when the post office department tries to increase postal rates in order to meet the pay increases. Nearly every interest which could possibly be affected by the suggested increase in rates has come down to Washington with a loud clamor lest its business be affected.

Objections Raised

The farmer doesn't want the increase tacked on the parcel post. Newspapers and periodicals are insistent that second class matter already overburdened with expensive rates, shall not be tampered with lest the cost of distributing information and intelligence be so prohibitive as to diminish the educational development of the country by newspapers and periodicals. The business men of the country do not want to see the first class mail rates increased and so on down the line.

Where then is the $68,000,000 coming from to pay the increases which almost everyone admits are due to postal carriers and mail employes? The president has let it be known unofficially that if the veto on the last pay bill is not considered for the present, at least until there is an agreement between the senate and the house as to how the money shall be raised, he will ultimately have no objection to the overriding of his own veto. In fact, he will recommend the passage of an increased pay bill very much along the lines of the one now proposed by Postmaster General New.

Where to Get It..

In all the budget of nearly three and a half billions, isn't there $68,000,000 which can be better spent for postal employes' wages than for other items? That is the question with which the budget officers of the government have been struggling with, but when the budget was sent to congress the question was not answered, whereupon the friends in congress of the postal employes went ahead with their plan to get a vote to override the veto. The executive may yet have to find the money by cutting down on some building expenditure elsewhere, but the chances are that some increases in postal rates will be put through as a means of paying at least part of the new expense.

The strategy of the friends of the postal bill is to get the measure passed and to make congress and the executives find ways to meet the expense in much the same way the soldier bonus advocates did. For, if the controversy is left to drag until a way is found to pay the money the present session of congress, which is short, would probably lose the whole matter in the shuffle. Before passing a law requiring the appropriation congress will commit itself to the financing of the pay increase and it seems inevitable, if the bill passes, that a large part of the revenue will be raised by increased postal rates.

CALLIOPE USHERS IN WINTER'S FUN

Downtown L. A. Revels In Spaghetti Feasts And Carnival Times

By MARIAN MARSHALL
For Southland News Service

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 19.—Hilarity of the winter season was ushered into the downtown district last night with a calliope providing jazz for the "cafe circus" which will remain open all night, according to its proprietors, the Lyman brothers.

The tourist will have something new to see, but the mere sight of one cafe is nothing extraordinary. For the unitiated there is a little spaghetti parlor on Spring street that is a real novelty. Customers displaying diamonds, occupants of limousines and their friends stand three deep for a chance to elbow their way to the lunch counter and eat Italian raviolas, tagliari or spaghetti.

You would say the restaurant business was good if you asked Signora Mora who has assisted her husband in building five big cafes in less time than most people think of starting one. Signora Mora nearly fainted the other night in an effort to dish up all the spaghetti the crowd demanded.

Advertising Gets 'Em

Carnival nights are quite the rage in all the cabarets and entertainment is good, but it's the food that counts. People will go miles to get good food, as witness the popularity of several Glendale restaurants. The most successful places are the biggest advertisers.

It is advertising and publicity that have made film stars. It is advertising that attracts the crowds to the theatres. And even the smallest incident is good for publicity in the movies. Estelle Taylor, whose name is mentioned many times in connection with Jack Dempsey, is suing her salesman husband, Mr. Peacock in Philadelphia, for divorce. Miss Taylor found that ripe olives taste better when they come from a can, for she stopped at a grove in Sunland the first of the week and picked an olive. One bite was a plenty for the actress to register disgust. She learned that olives have to be pickled to be good.

That's the way with a lot of things, eh?

Big Police Dog Waits In Vain For Greetings

At 626 North Louise street a big police dog patiently watches the door, waiting and hoping. Behind the door, he feels, his master should be. The days pass and his master does not come. He cannot understand, so he waits. His faith is the faith of a child. Death he cannot grasp. His master had opened the door so many times and stepped out to pat him on the head, surely he will come out again, the big police dog reasons. His brain is developed to no higher power of logic. He knows no other philosophy, And so he watches patiently by the door, waiting, hoping —in vain. His master was Asa Hall, deceased councilman and elder in the Glendale Presbyterian church.

SCIENTIST SEES TOOTHLESS RACE

Pass Up Biscuits, Toasted Marshmallows, Gum or Lose Molars

DENVER, Dec. 19.—A toothless age for civilization in the coming centuries is the drab prediction of Dr. E. B. Renaud, professor of archeology and anthropolgy at Denver university—unless modern man lays off tea biscuits, chewing gum and toasted marshmallows.

Dr. Renaud declares that the process of dissolution of man's molars is already under way, but admits that it will be 40,000 years before humanity becomes toothless.

"The function of evolution has decreed," Dr. Renaud is quoted as saying. "that future generations shall munch on their gums."

Scientists have found ancient teeth much larger than those carried to the dentist's today, the professor pointed out, and later discoveries revealed that in the process of time the various incisors and molars and other teeth had diminished slightly. And this diminishing is slowly but steadily progressing.

Disease to Blame

The reason for the change, Dr. Renaud declared, lies in the difference of degree of use to which the teeth are put, and he compares the ape-man, who prowled the forests tearing and grinding his food like a wild animal, to the present-day citizen who "nibbles on a tea biscuit, chews gum, bites into a marshmallow, or at most cracks a peanut or grinds a well-cooked steak," drawing this conclusion based on the theory of evolution:

An organ that is used but slightly, or not at all, will gradually disappear.

So, like the human beings that lost their tails when it became unnecessary to flit about among the trees, human beings in similar fashion will lose their teeth because of disuse.

CLOVERSEED CROP UNUSUALLY SMALL

America Facing Shortage as Figures Reveal Amount Of Year's Crop

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—A shortage of cloverseed is facing America. The greatest shortage in history is looming, according to the Blue Valley Creamery Institute of Chicago. The crop last year is the smallest crop on record, and the production of seed is now only 74 per cent of last year's crop, according to government figures.

The institute is advocating the growing of alfalfa wherever practicable, instead of competing for high-priced cloverseed. This, it contends, will be more economical.

In its statement on the cloverseed shortage the institute says: "The crop report just issued shows that the total production this year is estimated at 817,000 bushels, as compared with 1,100,000 last year and a five-year average of 1,610,000. Last year approximately 24,000,000 pounds of cloverseed were imported to make up deficiencies in America, but Europe has a shortage this year also and probably will have little seed for the United States.

"Red cloverseed prices already are high and are likely to go higher. Fortunately, both alfalfa and sweet clover have produced larger crops than usual this season, alfalfa being one-third larger, so farmers of the nation are urged to seed with alfalfa. It will be more economical than to practice thin seeding, which is so frequently done when cloverseed is as scarce as it is now."

The Wrath To Come

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM, Copyright 1924

CHAPTER LXIX

"In which case, I suppose you would not have been on your way to America now?"

"I certainly should not," he acknowledged.

"And you would have been spared this terrible thing which has come upon you!"

"The voyage would never have taken place," he remarked stonily.

The service of luncheon proceeded amidst flickers of conversation of a general character, chiefly prompted by Gertrude. Afterwards they took their coffee on deck.

"To leave our unimportant selves for a moment or two," she said sadly, yet with an effort at lightness, "what are you going to do in America?"

"I shall work there," he answered.

"You certainly will," she agreed. "I believe you are going back with the right idea. If not, you can hear it from me. All that speech of Blunn's was sheer and unadulterated bluff. Germany will do its very utmost in the States to get the Senate to refuse the invitation from the Pact. They have more power than you would imagine."

"You have reason to believe this?" Grant asked.

"I know it," she assured him. "They talked before me freely enough—Blunn, Lutrecht, Otto. I was only Otto's wife, his chattel. I didn't count. I shouldn't be likely to dare to breathe a word of which my lord and master did not approve. Oh, they are fools, those men, the way they treat their womankind."

"Have you any idea as to the means they intend to use?" Grant enquired.

"Propaganda, first and foremost," she declared. "They are all prepared. Whom they cannot convince, they will buy. They reckon that the bill for assenting to the invitation will be fought inch by inch in the Senate. They will go any lengths to stop it."

"I know what that means," he muttered. "I know what a political fight in my country means, alas!"

"I might be able to help," she suggested a little timidly. "I have seen something of life in Berlin."

He made her drink her coffee and afterwards lie down and rest. He himself spent a restless afternoon. The situation tormented him. A man of fixed and changeless purposes, as a rule, he found himself all the time looking at the matter from varying points of view. There were moments when his old tenderness for Gertrude seemed to some extent revived when, for the sake of bringing the happiness once more into her face, he felt a queer incoherent impulse to bid her close the gates of memory upon her past,—to assure her of his unchanged devotion. And then he shook with terror at the thought that such an idea could possibly have occurred to him. He was running a risk of ruining his own life and perhaps Susan's for the sake of a sentimental impulse of pity. He kept to himself most of the afternoon. At dinner time the strain began again. She wore a simple but beautifully fitting black net gown, and the way her eyes sought his as though for his approval would have seemed pathetic to a harder-hearted man than Grant. She drank more champagne than usual at dinner time and regained some of her spirits. She seemed less timid, some of her constraint appeared to pass. Afterwards they sat out on deck in a sheltered place. A clear, windy night, a star-strewn sky and a moon in its last quarter. They smoked, drank coffee, and every moment conversation became more difficult. Suddenly she leaned towards him and caught at his hands.

"Grant," she murmured, pleading, "can't you pretend, even if you don't feel anything any more? Don't keep me at arms' length like this. We're alone. There isn't any one in the world to interfere, and my heart is dry. Kiss me as though you cared just a little."

Her arms were around his neck, her head falling back, her lips close to his. A sudden coldness came over him. He remembered how he had longed and fought against the desire to kiss Susan. It wasn't fair, he had told himself. She must have her chance. She was young. The sort of kiss he would have given her seemed somehow sacrilegious.

"Grant, kiss me."

He obeyed coldly, and with no pretence of fervour.

"Gertrude," he said, "it's a horrible thing. You know I cared once. You know that once I was glad enough to kiss you."

"Is it that girl?" she asked.

"Yes," he answered.

Her arms slid away from him—white, reluctant arms, beautiful in shape and texture—arms with their own peculiar expression of despair, as they fell upon her lap. The life for a moment seemed to go out of her.

"She is so young," she murmured. "Such a child, Grant. She doesn't understand life yet. You could leave her alone and she wouldn't be hurt. And you—you don't realize it, but you need more than that."

"Gertrude," he confessed, "I'm a fool about her. I can't help it. She's one of a type, I know—a very beautiful but not an unusual type. But she's just herself. The way she looks, her voice, her laugh, her little mannerisms—they just sit in my heart, they make me feel tender and wonderful things, and there doesn't seem to be room for anything else."

She lay watching the lazy movements of the yacht as it rose and fell, watching the black tumult of waters, glittering, now and then, in the faint moonshine. For a time she seemed utterly inert. Then she rose suddenly to her feet.

"I have a fancy to walk, Grant," she said. "No, don't come, please. I would just like to walk alone. It is a fancy of mine."

He helped her to her feet. She drew a fur wrap around her shoulders and turned hastily away. He leaned back in his chair, his eyes following her movements. She walked with rapid, unhesitating foot-steps, sure-footed and graceful on the sloping deck, walked with her head a little uplifted, as though watching the rolling mast stab upward at the stars, as though she had passed into a world of her own thoughts, as though she were pursuing phantom ideas, seeking comfort in impotent essays of the imagination. The wind blew in her hair but brought no colour to her cheeks. Time after time she passed his chair without a glance, and each time it seemed to him that she was a little paler. At last he stopped her.

"You are tiring yourself, Gertrude," he said kindly. "Take my arm if you want to walk any more."

Theology Students Are Expelled for Marrying

GREELEY, Colo., Dec. 19.—Paul Fish of Elizabeth, N. J., and George W. Scarborough of Elmira, N. Y., students of St. John's Episcopal school here, were under expulsion today following a double wedding involving the two young men.

Fish was married to Ernestine Schauter of Denver, and Scarborough wed Nadine Patterson of Greeley. Both brides were students at Colorado Teachers' college in this city.

Dr. B. W. Bonnell, head master of the theological school, stated they had committed no crime, "but their conduct is hardly compatible with the rules of a theological seminary."

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY IN THE BARBER SHOP

"Come on, Uncle Wiggily, are you ready?" asked Nurse Jane one afternoon, as she pulled down the window curtains in the hollow stump bungalow.

"Ready for what? Where are you going?" asked Uncle Wiggily, as he put a little talcum powder on his pink nose to stop it from twinkling, for it had been doing so too much that day. "Are you off for the movies?"

"No, indeed, I'm not going to the movies," said the muskrat lady housekeeper. "Have you forgotten that you are to come to tea with me this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Twistytail, the lady pig?"

"Oh, goodness! I forgot all about that!" cried the bunny. "I can't go, however—really I can't. If it were to the movies now, that would be different."

"Why?" asked Nurse Jane.

"Because I need a shave," answered Uncle Wiggily. "My whiskers are very long—I haven't had a shave in three days. I would look all right in the movies, for there it is dark, and my whiskers wouldn't show. But I can't go to Mrs. Twistytail's until I have the shave."

"Well, then," said Nurse Jane, "skip hippity hop to the barber shop and don't get yourself a lollypop, but have the barber pig shave your hairs on top!"

"I'll do that," said Uncle Wiggily. "You wait here for me and when I come back with my whiskers shaved, we'll go to the tea."

Now as Uncle Wiggily went skipping hippity hop into the barber shop, he was seen by the Fuzzy Fox and the Woozie Wolf.

"Here is where I catch that rabbit," whispered the Fox to the Wolf. "He fooled me the other day, by sneezing ker choo with chalk dust up his nose, and I thought it was the Police Dog saying, 'I'll catch you!' so I ran away. But this time Uncle Wiggily isn't going to fool me."

"How are you going to fool him?" asked the Wolf.

"Listen," whispered the Fox. "I'll creep in the barber shop and hide under the chair Uncle Wiggily will sit in to get shaved. When the barber pig has that rabbit all wrapped up in aprons and towels, I will spring out from under the chair and bite him."

"Bite who?" asked the Wolf, ungrammatical like but practical.

"I'll bite Uncle Wiggily!" snarled the Fox. "You wait and see!"

So the Fox slipped quietly into the barber shop while Uncle Wiggily was lying back in the chair. The bunny's face was covered with soapy lather, and the barber pig was putting on more of the white suds when, all of a sudden, out from beneath the chair leaped the bad chap.

"Oh, ho! Oh, ha!" growled the Fox. "I came in to bite you, Un-Wiggily! Here I am!"

"Let me see how wide you can open your mouth, Mr. Fox," grunted the barber pig. "I don't believe you can open your mouth wide enough to take in one of Uncle Wiggily's long ears."

"Oh, yes I can!" snapped the Fox. "Look how wide I can open my mouth!" And when he had opened it very wide, the barber pig thrust in the brush, all covered with soapy lather. Right into the open mouth of the Fox the barber pig put a lot of soap suds.

"Gurr! Waugh! Faugh! Wagazickle!" spluttered the Fox. "Oh, I've got to have a drink of water!" And out of the woods he ran, and the waiting Wolf ran with him, for he thought the Fox had gone mad, and was frothing at the mouth. But it was only soap from the shaving brush, and it took the Fox a long time to wash his mouth clean at a spring in the woods.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily when he saw the Fox run away. Then the bunny was nicely shaved and went to the tea with Nurse Jane.

Paris Scientist Tells of Gland Experiments

Dr. Serge Voronoff, an international authority on glands, has said: "The brain, the nerves, the muscles, as well as the liver, the kidneys and all other organs, would be incapable of playing any useful part without the aid of the glands. The functioning of our organs is no more than the activity of our glands, and when the bodily functioning is disturbed, the cause in most cases should be sought, not in the condition of the organ itself, but in the condition of the gland which controls it."

Glandogen, the new scientific gland tonic, prepared in tablet form provides a simple method of taking glandular treatment. Glandogen, for men and women, is obtainable at Ahlman Drug Co. Phone orders accepted.—Advertisement.

Highest Christmas Tree

Forty-five feet high and just loaded down with sparkling electric lights, hundreds of glittering ornaments and miles of shiny festoons, is this magnificent symbol of Yuletide cheer and joy erected by Robert Jensen in the lobby of Jensen's Palace Grand arcade, 133 North Brand boulevard. The monarch of the forest was brought to Glendale from Oregon on a special flat car.

Hundreds of children, and lots of grown-ups too, are daily viewing the huge Christmas tree in the lobby of Jensen's Palace Grand arcade, 133 North Brand boulevard, and many are the comments made on its appearance when lighted.

This is the second tree given by Robert Jensen and its cost was $500, it having been specially ordered from Oregon. It is 45 feet high and required one entire flat car for transportation. Glistening with gold and silver festoons, hundreds of decorations, and a multitude of colored electric lights, it is doubtful if there is another tree in Southern California its equal.

That other communities are interested in the tree is evidenced in the fact radio KFI has broadcasted details and will keep it before the public until Christmas. A special program has been arranged for the kiddies and this, also, will be broadcasted.

The managers and salespeople of the various arcade shops will act as a reception committee each day to visitors. The shops are keeping open until 9 p. m. Those co-operating in the Christmas tree entertainment are:

Sherrod's lingerie shop, Melba-Jeanne ready-to-wear, Brown's gift and art shop, Marion-Elizabeth millinery, Egyptian Village cafe, Palace Grand beauty parlor, Lewis jewelry store, Sun drug store, Recreation center bowling alley and Albert Sheetz Mission candy store.

Christmas Pageant Is Arranged for Church

"Under the Stars" is the name of the Christmas pageant which will be presented at the Christmas program of the Grand View Community church on Sunday night, December 28, at 7:30 o'clock. The pageant was issued by the Presbyterian board of foreign missions and it will be given by all classes of the church. Members of the classes will take gifts to be given to people in the community and additional gifts of money will be brought to send for foreign missionary work. The offerings by the classes constitute a part of the pageant.

American Oil Tanker In Danish Ship Crash

HULL, England, Dec. 19.—The Danish steamer Nordland collided late yesterday with the Anglo-American oil tanker Cadillac at the mouth of the Humber. A six-foot hole was torn in the side of the Cadillac. Engineers were successful in patching the hole after the tanker had lost a quantity of oil. The Nordland was seriously damaged.

How To Reach Scene Of Big Gridiron Game

The Glendale Evening News today presents the best routes to Washington park, Los Angeles, where the Southern California prep grid title will be decided tomorrow afternoon when Glendale Dynamiters and Compton Gladiators clash. The directions for motorists are:

South on Brand boulevard to Glendale boulevard, to Alvarado street, to Washington street, to the park.

South on Brand boulevard, to Second street, to Figueroa street, to Washington street, to ball park, or drive on Flower street instead of Figueroa street to avoid heavy traffic.

To reach the park by streetcar, take Pacific Electric cars on South Brand boulevard to Broadway, and "M" car on yellow line to within block of ball park, or take Pacific Electric car to Sixth and Hill streets, and any Pacific Electric car going south on Hill street to Sixteenth and Hill streets.

Glendale rooters will occupy a portion of the grandstand directly behind first base, thus being opposite the middle of the gridiron. Compton rooters will occupy the bleachers adjoining the Glendale section. The kick-off will be at 2 o'clock, the admission price is thirty-five cents for students and $1 for adults.

Church Choir Brushes Up With Xmas Music

Rehearsal of the First Congregational church choir was held last night for Christmas music to be played at the morning and night services on Sunday. Forty voices will be heard in the choral work. Assisting will be Miss Marie Oliver, soprano, Miss Frances Payne, violinist and Miss Lila Litch, organist. Mrs. W. Q. Widdows is director.

INDOOR SKATING

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Indoor yacht clubs always have been a joke, but indoor skating clubs are not, in cities where there are large rinks. One costume just designed for such surroundings consists of a wrap-around skirt of homespun, a chantung blouse and a suede jacket, made without a collar and severely plain. This is fastened only by a loose belt at the waist.

WINDMILL BAKERY OPENS SATURDAY

Van de Kamp Holland Dutch Shop on Colorado at Wing Street

Next Saturday, one of the popular windmill bakeries will be opened at the corner of Colorado boulevard and Wing street by the Van de Kamp firm of Holland Dutch bakers. This store is the newest addition to the string of blue windmills which Van de Kamp now operates in Los Angeles and its environs. While the exterior has the exact appearance of one of the quaint old Dutch windmills, the interior is completely fitted as a modern bakery store, where the Holland Dutch bakery products will be sold. The windmill has always been the company's trade mark, and some time ago Mr. Van de Kamp conceived the idea of embodying it in the erection of the windmill stores. The Glendale store has as an added convenience to patrons its own private driveway and parking space.

Competent sales girls, who have been prepared for their duties by a special course of training will be in charge of the store. The bakery goods come absolutely fresh every day and are sold at the same prices that prevail in all of the other Van de Kamp stores.

Souvenirs Offered

Glendale housewives will have the opportunity of chosing from the entire line of Holland Dutch bakery products without the necessity of leaving their own locality. It is expected that this consideration, together with the quality of the goods sold will assure the success of the store as a headquarters for bakery shopping.

As souvenirs of the opening all purchasers on Saturday at this store will be given toy pinwheels in the form of Van de Kamp windmills with revolving arms. These have been especially designed for the occasion and their popularity with the children as Christmas toys makes them appropriate. Special preparations to handle a large number of Christmas shoppers have been made by the Van de Kamp Co., and quick and courteous service is assured to all those who visit the store on its opening day.

NOTED FAMILIES ATTEND MUSICAL

Van Grove Art Salon Is Scene of Recital By Artists

Glendale's attractive new music and art salon at 337 North Brand boulevard, presided over by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Van Grove, provided the setting last night for a gathering of 150 music lovers for a recital program given by Margaret Messer Morris, soprano, and Elsie Manion, violinist. Accompaniments were played by the Knabe Ampico. Walter David, impresario of the Fitzgerald Music Co., Los Angeles, was master of ceremonies, presenting the artists.

In addition to being a musical event of note, the affair was of social importance. Patronesses were: Mesdames Mattison, B. Jones, Eva Cunningham, Frank Arnold, Helen Campbell, Warren Roberts, F. H. Wallace, Calvin Whiting, Roberta T. Young, Charles Marlenee, E. R. Ripley, Ed Cleophas, Frank Thomas and Miss Myrtle Baldwin.

Miss Morris and Miss Manion found in the splendid program opportunity for displaying their artistic talent and musical art. The program included: "Romanza Andaluza" ((Sarasate), "Liebesfreud" (Kreisler), Miss Manion; "The Old Refrain" (Kreisler), "The Nightingale" (Brockman), Miss Morris; "Ave Maria" (Schubert-Wilhelmi), Miss Manion; Aria "Batatella" (from Pagliacci), (Leoncavallo), Miss Morris; "Romance" (Wieniawski), Miss Manion; "Widmung" (Shuman), "At the Well" (Hageman), Miss Morris. Flowers were presented to both artists by the Van Grove, Inc.

CITY TO WELCOME C. C. SECRETARIES

Eighty Chamber Members Over Southland Meet Here Tomorrow

Plans for welcoming eighty chamber of commerce secretaries, members of the Commercial Secretaries' association of Southern California, who will convene in Glendale tomorrow, are complete. Details of the program have been in the hands of Howard I. Wood of the Glendale chamber, who announced today that everything is in readiness for the meeting of the executives.

It will be the second visit of the secretaries to Glendale, and will bring many of the leading chamber of commerce figures of the Southland. President James C. Metzgar of Santa Ana will preside at the business session. Charles P. Bayer, head of the organization service department of the Los Angeles chamber, will attend.

The secretaries will register at the Chamber of Commerce headquarters, 150 South Brand boulevard, at 11:30 o'clock, and will gather for lunch at the Masonic temple immediately afterwards. The luncheon meeting will be addressed by S. P. Morris of the organization service department of the Los Angeles chamber.

Business Anticipated

After lunch the members will go into business session. Problems of secretaries in increasing the efficiency of their departments will be discussed. One of the most important items scheduled to come up is the proposed co-operation of Southland chambers of commerce in a move to eliminate illegitimate solicitation and advertising schemes.

A system of solicitations committees for every city, these committees to be in full connection with a central headquarters, has been evolved in Glendale and will be laid before the secretaries for their consideration. A solicitations committee, which passes on the worthiness of all schemes before they are patronized by local merchants and business houses, is functioning in Glendale very successfully at the present time.

Mrs. Daniel Campbell, federation secretary of the Tuesday Afternoon club, attended a federation secretaries' meeting in Los Angeles yesterday, and reported Glendale club women are invited to attend.

SPORTS

Dynamiters To Play Gladiator Squad In Championship Game

By ROSS M. RUSSELL, JR.
Of The Evening News Staff.

By far the biggest crowd to see Coach Normal C. Hayhurst's Dynamiters in action this year will be on hand tomorrow at the Washington baseball park when the local hopes clash with Coach E. W. Pine's Comptonites for the championship of Southern California.

The local boys are in good condition and have only one valuable player on the injured list. He is Bill Bradbury who did some nice booting for the Dynamiters last week against Orange until he was kicked on the hip and had to be taken from the game.

Last night Coach Hayhurst announced that either Louis Dotson or Carl Denney will do the punting. While neither equals Bradbury, both are capable of averaging between thirty-five and forty yards.

Glendale Lineup

With Bradbury out, Ellsworth de Parcq will begin the game at right end and Droopy Phillips at right tackle. Dixon Fannon or Ray Green will start at right guard. The remainder of the line will be as usual, Cecil Zaun, center; Marion Morrison, guard; Louis Dotson, tackle; Leslie Lavelle, end.

Glendale's "Four Horsemen," Elliott, Muff, Ryan and Denney, will start as usual. Denney will back up the line on defensive and do most of the wall battering on the offensive. Muff and Elliott will attend to the sprinting and open field running. Muff will play safety.

The field at Washington park remains unchanged after the recent baseball season. It will run in the general direction from home to first. The ground around the bases has not been replaced by turf. The rest of the field is in fair shape but is pretty soft.

Thompson May Play

Porter Thompson, quarterback on the lightweight team, and who paved the way for the Dynamiters' victory over the Orangemen last Saturday at Patterson field, will be on hand and ready to dash into the fray if Coach Hayhurst sees where the flashy back can be used to advantage.

Johnny Lovell, fullback on the lightweights, who added the extra point last week after Bud Elliott pulled the best scoring play of the season and sneaked over the goal line, has been training his well-educated toe this week, and when the Dynamiters get within kicking distance of the goal posts, Lovell will be rushed in.

Another lightweight player that may be used to good advantage tomorrow afternoon is Dwight Stewart, rated as the stellar line plunger of the class B team. Stewart played left half for the 130-pounders, and has been largely responsible for the high scores and long gains made by the class B team during the past season.

Compton Favorites

Compton will take the field slight favorites over the Dynamiters. This is due to the fact that they tamed Santa Maria, "the terror of the north," at Compton two weeks ago. Santa Maria, who smothered Van Nuys, 34 to 2, went down to defeat at the hands of the Gladiators, 24 to 14. Glendale and Van Nuys battled to a 6-6 tie in the first playoff game.

Chappelle, much-feared center and pivot man of the Gladiators, will not be in the lineup tomorrow, according to word from the home of Coach Pine's crew. Chappelle was noted for his ability to tear through any line and smear after play, while on the offensive he ripped large holes for the Compton backfield to follow through. His place at center will be filled by Mayo tomorrow.

Compton worked out at Washington park yesterday and the Dynamiters will unlimber on the battlefield this afternoon. One of the largest crowds ever present for a prep grid game is expected at the park tomorrow afternoon. There has been no advance sale of tickets for the contest, but tickets will be available at the park. Admission prices are to be thirty-five cents for students, and $1 for adults.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Eddie Garvey, the heavyweight pugilist, former Notre Dame football star, is what might be termed a glutton for punishment. It develops that this fall, under another name, he did a lot of playing for one of the smaller college football elevens of the Atlantic seaboard—one of the lesser known teams, whom rivals perhaps are quite willing to spot the services of a star such as Garvey.

Garvey, by the way, may find his earning capacity reduced outside of New York, if he permits those who are handling his affairs to put over what Nick Kline, one of the promoters of the Newark armory shows, says some one attempted to put over on him in Jersey.

It will be recalled that Garvey was slated to meet a fighter named Lazuka the night Weinert fought Jack Sharkey. Now Lazuka had previously appeared in Newark and had made a fine impression.

But when the time came for the fighters to weigh in on Monday afternoon the Jersey promoters say that the "Lazuka," who appeared as opponent for Garvey was not the Lazuka who made such a good showing in Newark. On the contrary, they alleged that the "Lazuka," who was to box Eddie was the Palooka who had been training with Garvey for a week.

So "Lazuka" was canned and the promoters named as alternate opponent the big Atlantic negro, Jordan. Garvey declined forthwith saying he would not indulge in a mixed bout.

Billy McCarney, who is now managing Weinert with great skill points out the fact that the two sparring partners who worked with the Adonis when he was training for the bout in which he beat Firpo were Joe McCann and Sailor Maxted.

Maxted was the first man to meet Firpo in this country. Luis stowed him away in seven rounds and received $125. The second man he met was McCann, who was put away in the fifth round. Firpo received $1000 for this bout. This started Luis on his blazing career.

Then McCann and Maxted worked with might and main to fit Weinert for his Firpo battle and are thus chuckling over being in part responsible at least for starting Luis on his way back to the sticks. George Ruttenberg trained McCann and Maxted for Luis and also trained Weinert. And in the Weinert bout it was the first time he did not have to drag his man back to his corner. That is why Rut is smiling these days.

LAWRENCE PERRY SAYS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—George Duncan and Abe Mitchell will be on the Pacific coast Saturday, hopping there from Dallas, Texas, where they are staging a midweek display of their wares.

It required but a victory over Hagen and Sarazen, following their triumph over Bobby Jones and Ouimet at Asheville, to set the British golfing enthusiasts to chuckling.

No doubt there will be other occasions calling for congratulations as the two British pros wander in California's sunny clime. For no one who follows golf at all closely will debate the assertion that Mitchell and Duncan are the greatest golf team in the world.

Hagen and Sarazen are of course brilliant individually, but they play as individuals not as a team. Sarazen especially lacks what may be termed team keenness.

An example of this is contained among expert advices concerning the St. Augustine match which the whiter has just received. It seems that Sarazen had a putt on the same line as Hagen. Walter putted first but before addressing his ball he turned to Sarazen:

"Better stand behind me Gene," he said, "so you can get the line for your putt."

Duncan and Mitchell do this sort of thing constantly. No detail escapes their notice, no point their deep attention. Duncan usually plays first and no man is more steady than he. Mitchell gets his information as to the proper shot in watching his partner.

and weighing forty-four pounds was caught recently off the coast of Scotland.

COLLINS TO DRAW BIG PAY AS BOSS

Stellar Second Baseman To Get $25,000 As Manager Of Chicago White Sox

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—Edward T. Collins, probably the greatest second baseman baseball has known, will contrive to eke out an existence next season at a salary of $25,000 as player-manager of the Chicago White Sox, according to information bandied about today among baseball men as they departed for home.

Collins thus entered the small but select group of baseball's "heavy sugar" boys, the coterie including Messrs. Ruth, McGraw, Cobb and Hornsby.

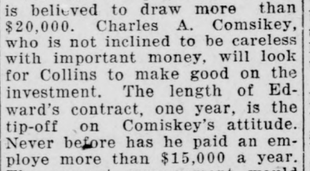
No other ball player or manager is believed to draw more than $20,000. Charles A. Comsikey, who is not inclined to be careless with important money, will look for Collins to make good on the investment. The length of Edward's contract, one year, is the tip-off on Comiskey's attitude. Never before has he paid an employe more than $15,000 a year. The present arrangement would prove somewhat irksome to him if the White Sox were chronic losers under Collins.

Assistance Offered

Collins, of course, will get a fair trial. In fact, he probably will receive better financial support than any manager outside New York, for Comiskey has told friends that he will back Collins to the limit, even to the extent of paying as much for a good minor league prospect as he did for Willie Kamm, to wit, $100,000.

At the same time he admits that he cannot really buy what the Sox needed last year—a hustling ball club. Johnny Evers was dropped down in a tough spot when Frank Chance died. The going became rougher, as the campaign progressed. There seemed to be quite a number of ball players in Chicago who would not win for Evers.

Though the White Sox lacked consistent pitching and a short stop, they were not a last place ball club on paper. The Sox finished last, but Collins must have a short-stop and the tip is out that Comiskey will shortly indulge himself in another costly minor league purchase.



Trojan Night and the appearance of Glendale's premiere lightweight, Dick Hoppe, at the Hollywood American Legion stadium tonight will be jointly celebrated. Coach "Gloomy Gus" Henderson will be present and presented with one of the post's w. k. wrist watches, and the Trojan band will supply the music. Dick Hoppe will meet Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska wildcat, in the main event; Frank Farmer and Ray Neuman tangle in the semi-windup; K. O. Kelly and Young Burmay meet in the special spot. Other bouts will be: Little Billy Hart and Frankie Dolan, Joe Dunn and Roy Edwards, Al Robinson and Smiling Joe Herman and Joe Garcia and Jack Lanning.

BERKELEY SQUAD AT BAKERSFIELD

Yellowjackets And Drillers Decide State Title In Football Tomorrow

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 19.—The Berkeley Yellowjackets, twenty-four strong arrived here today for their state championship game with the Drillers, which takes place tomorrow at Griffith field.

The Yellowjackets boast of the strongest team ever to represent Berkeley High, and Coach Goldy Griffith, for the first time in five years, appears worried over the outcome of Saturday's contest. Last Saturday the Yellowjackets ran wild over the Lodi Flames in California championship, stinging them, 51 to 0, and making the Flames like it. Coach Griffith witnessed the contest and came back to Bakersfield with tales of the possibility of the Drillers' relinquishing the state title, which they have held since 1919.

According to Griffith the Berkeley eleven will considerably outweigh the Drillers in the titular game, and if the locals win it will be because they show superior fight.

Bakersfield will turn out en masse to support the Drillers, all stores being closed while the game is on, Christmas shopping or no. After the game the Drillers will be feted at a banquet by a local cafe owner. After the feast the captain for next year's Bakerfield eleven will be elected.

Yellow Taxicab Owners Improve City Service

Following the practice of nearly all large cities in giving a standard rate, N. Nish, owner of the Glendale Yellow Taxicab Co., has installed meters in his cabs which accurately measure the distance traveled and gives a uniform charge. The meter rate is twenty cents for three-fourths miles for one to five passengers. No charge for extra passengers is also in line with practice followed by nearly all large taxicab companies and Mr. Nish is now in a position to better than ever give efficient and reasonable taxicab service to Glendalians.

Tanforan Track May Be Scene of Fights

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 19.—Tanforan race track will be available as an outdoor arena for ten-round boxing bouts.

This announcement was made today by General Manager John D. Stellings, who said he held high hopes that the first ten round bouts in California would be staged at Tanforan. He intimated he would act as promoter and manager of any bouts staged there.

SHEDS ALL SNOW

ZURICH, Dec. 17.—The one distinguishing feature of the winter sport costumes which will be worn in the Alps this season is that the materials all present an absolutely smooth outside surface to which snow and ice will not cling. All also are distinguished by breeches which lace tightly at the knee.

SPORTDOM ALL OVER

By JOSEPH L. KELLEY
Of The Evening News Staff.

Somewhere in New York a maniac "took the air" from an asylum for insane. He was sitting on the world, as the doughboy said on pay day. Outside the asylum he was emperor of all he surveyed. The rails of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad, shining in the sunlight, attracted maniac's attention. So did the flag station. If he were going to be monarch of all he surveyed he was going to sit pretty while doing his stuff.

Maniac stepped lightly up ladder leading to crowsnest in flagging station, gave flagman one look and flagman figured air outside was more inviting. He abdicated quicker than Czar of Russia.

Maniac had his pipe but no matches. Since he gave everyone within radius of hundred yards about flag station the "air" he had to do some tall thinking about how to get a match. If he owned the world certainly the world owed him a match.

A train whistled in the distance. Maniac had heard all engineers carried matches. He flagged the train and nonchantly borrowed match from pilot and waved him on his way. That was maniac's idea of "stepping out" so he flagged a few more trains, just to show world he owned it.

The sheriff of the county got wind of maniac's commanding position and with aid of asylum guard persuaded maniac to go back to padded cell and let rest of world roll by.

That guy thought he was right and rest of world all wrong. Which brings Ye Ed to compulsory consideration of Einstein's theory of relativity.

Einstein's theory never has been satisfactorily explained. It never has been explained at all—satisfactorily or otherwise. All the wise ones getting paid for looking wise in the study halls of big universities wagged heads and said Einstein was crazy.

Now along comes maniac and gives positive proof that old boy Einstein had the right idea and explains theory all Ph. D. men in country flunked in.

It depends upon one's viewpoint or place of vantage. Maniac was sitting on world and he proved it by flagging trains to light his pipe, then sitting down with legs crossed to wait developments. It developed he was wrong but he didn't think so.

The world could worry its head gray about whether Fred Fulton laid down or not or whether "Silent Cal" was going to fire Wilbur or build a bigger navy. None of these worries ran through dome of maniac.

From where he stood all was rosy. While millions of Americans were figuring how they could knock off two cents from fourth quarter income tax for last year, maniac nonchalantly flags express to borrow match and gets away with it.

Relativity means, according to the best Einstein dictionaries (unabridged), "from where one sits or lies" which broadened out to meet dimensions of two-quart Stetson, is explained thusly:

Take Fred Fulton for instance. From where he laid down in Culver City he could see a check of $7500 sticking out of the left-hand pocket of his race-track suit in the dressing room of "Windy" Winner's dancing academy. None of the hundreds of fans gathered at the ringside could see it. Fred knew his Einstein. If he stood up he couldn't see it. Therefore check and Fred were in relative positions provided Fred laid down.

Tony Fuente, the Mexican jumping bean, who looked on as Fred "knew his Einstein" wasn't such a punk philosopher as intended. After Einstein radioed Fred he had laid long enough and sheriff started search for Tony, to find out how much he knew about the fade-out, Tony was playing skip the rope with other jumping beans across Rio Grande.

From where Tony is skipping rope things look as rosy as shining rails did to maniac. He can thumb his nose at sheriff and go on playing games with jumping beans because Einstein says all things are relative—even Mexico. When Mexico is relative, Einstein must be right.

You never can tell how theory of relativity is going to work out. Fred Fulton had to lay down; maniac had to flag train for match; Fuente had to get below Rio Grande; gunmen have to come to L. A., etc, to prove it.

When Columbus said world was round, Isabella pawned all her jewels to lay a side bet it was square. Oil investigations proved it is crooked. All depends on viewpoint. According to Chris if you walk far enough and shoes last you'll be walking on your head when you cover half a lap.

A train of twelve coaches in Scotland recently attained a speed of eighty miles an hour.

BETTER BUILT HOMES—Not Merely Houses

Style 44

Choose the builder first —then pick your home

When building a home it is of far greater consequence to choose the right builder rather than to select on the basis of the lowest bid. We guarantee, in every instance, to give more quality, better service and plans that are architecturally correct in every detail. If the bids are secured on identically the same definite specifications as our prices are based upon, you will find our estimates far lower than others.

The home illustrated above is one of our smaller designs and can be erected for a very low cost. Ask for the price.

CARDINALS START PRACTICE AGAIN

Stanford Grid Warriors In Preparation for Game With Notre Dame

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Dec. 19.—Stanford after a week layoff, resumed practice today in preparation for Notre Dame at Pasadena, January 1.

It was definitely announced today that Ernie Nevers, barring further accidents, will start against the Irish at Pasadena. However, Coach Warner, realizing that his star plunger's legs may again go back on him, is planning backfield combinations that will be able to meet the Notre Dame attack if he is forced out of the game.

Planning Commission Is Upheld by Council

registered the only vote for establishment of the district.

The council denied all protests against the improvement of the first alley north of Broadway, and adopted a resolution ordering in the work. An ordinance was passed granting the Pacific Electric Railway Co. a permit to construct an underground cable on Eulalia street. The amended ordinance creating a commercial district at Canada boulevard and Verdugo road was offered.

Grants Franchise

An ordinance was offered granting the Southern California Edison Co. a twenty-five year franchise to operate certain power lines in the vicinity of Wilson avenue and Howard street. An ordinance was offered changing the name of Matilija road to Bonnie Brae drive.

A resolution was adopted requesting the Union Pacific Railway Co. to allow Charles and George K. Thompson, sewer contractors, to use certain tracks and abandoned buildings in the vicinity of Section 1 of the Glendale sewer system now under construction. On recommendation of the City Planning commission, it was voted to instruct the engineering department to prepare a 600-foot scale map of the city of Glendale, showing the various zones, and also to prepare a 200-foot map of the city, that these may be hung in the council chamber, for reference.

Secures Contract

P. S. Tomich was awarded the contract for installation of sewers in the Glendale Heights tract. His bid was $29,106.95. Jewitt & Co. of Los Angeles was awarded the bid for grading the Western avenue reservoir. The council granted Irving L. Robinson and J. L. Cornblich a permit to conduct a public dance at 335 North Brand boulevard. The application of Frank R. Mosher for a sixty-day extension of time on his contract for the improvement of Grover avenue was granted.

The council heard a written communication from the City Planning commission, asking that the State Railroad commission be urged to request that the Southern Pacific Railway Co. construct a bridge over their tracks at West Broadway. Ray L. Morrow, city attorney, stated such a request has already been filed with the commission. The council adjourned to meet next at 10 o'clock Friday morning, December 26, the regular meeting date of Thursday conflicting with Christmas Day.

Federal Prison Boss Placed Under Arrest

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 19.—A. E. Sartain, deposed warden, and L. J. Fletcher, his deposed deputy, were placed under arrest on charges of having accepted bribes at the United States penitentiary. The arrests were made shortly after the federal grand jury had started an investigation of affairs at the penitentiary by examining witnesses who were brought to the city from the prison. Warrants for the two former officials were determined upon during a conference between District Attorney Clint W. Hager and W. J. Donovan, assistant attorney-general, who was sent here from Washington to conduct the investigation.

Xmas Necktie Is Only Loot of Boy, Thieves

Two burglaries last night, attributed by Glendale police to boys, netted little of value. At the home of C. J. Reddering, 411 West Gilbert street, the family found on returning at 9:45 o'clock that several Christmas packages had been opened. A necktie was stolen. Entrance was gained by a passkey.

The home of David Bisno, 352 West Colorado boulevard, was entered prior to 10 o'clock and a number of household articles taken. An investigation of these burglaries is under way, in charge of Detective Lieutenant W. J. Royle.

Pedestrian in Fight For Spilled Wet Goods

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 19.—Pedestrians joined in a wild scramble for 700 bottles of bootleg whiskey spilled in the heart of the financial district when a street car hit a truck. The driver escaped. Several battles were fought over the liquor.

Houses of steel have been erected in Glasgow, Scotland.

ROSE BOWL GRID GAME DRAWS 'EM

Stanford, Pride of West Is Ready For Irishmen From East

By CAL FISHER
For Southland News Service

PASADENA, Dec. 19.—Stanford university is well represented here in preparation for the great Tournament of Roses football game between the East and West at the Rose Bowl New Year's day. Stanford and Notre Dame will kick off promptly at 2:15 o'clock that afternoon before the greatest crowd of gridiron enthusiasts in history, it is believed.

From December 1, when ticket sales began there has been an almost unprecedented demand for tickets to this game. Stanford has a team, the pride of the Pacific coast, to meet Knute Rockne's undefeated Irish. It will be a game of intense interest to the east and many eastern newspapers will send special correspondents to Pasadena to cover this classic.

Notables Expected

Postal will have five wires to the Rose Bowl while Western Union, the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co. and the press associations will be represented by double that number. Honored guests at the game and participants in the parade this year will include National Commander James G. Drain of the American Legion, former National Commander John R. Quinn, State Commander Nathan Coombs, Governor Friend W. Richardson, Grand Exalted Ruler John G. Price of the Elks and others.

While the pageant will attract thousands and officially open the winter season in a round of pleasure for tourists, the Stanford-Notre Dame game will surpass all other events in interest. Preparations being made by the Stanford Athletic Board of Control committee, which has opened offices here, point to real service.

Burbank And Glendale Officials At Banquet

"Gypsy Sweetheart," following with several other popular numbers. They left at 8 o'clock and rushed to Los Angeles, where they kept an appointment to broadcast from one of the stations, but at 10 o'clock they returned, and thenceforward until midnight they mingled their silver voices with the crackling of logs in the great open fireplace that is one of the features of the Stone Inn.

Leads Singing

During the progress of the banquet, R. Ernest Tucker, supervisor of municipal recreation for the city of Glendale, led a number of gymnastic singing exercises, assisted by Chief John D. Fraser of the Glendale police department. Mayor Spencer Robinson sang "Old Folks at Home." Later Mr. Tucker spoke briefly, stressing the value of community and inter-community entertainment activities.

When the Orpheus Four returned from broadcasting, they were greeted by salvos of joy. Everything from "Sweet Adeline" to "Silver Threads Among the Gold" was sung, including a number of impromptu stanzas of "It Ain't Gonna Rain No More."

Decorated as it was in the Yuletide spirit, with a glittering Christmas tree at one end, the room presented a warm and cheering holiday appearance. The banquet, served under the genial supervision of Mrs. Carolyn S. Childs, hostess, was voted by the Glendale contingent "as good as a Christmas dinner at grandma's."

Guests Present

The following were present from Glendale: Mayor Spencer Robinson; Councilmen S. A. Davis, S. S. Gilhuly and C. E. Kimlin; Virgil B. Stone, city manager; Chief John D. Fraser of the police department; Chief A. H. Lankford of the fire department; John F. Johannsen, city engineer and street superintendent; Peter Diederich, superintendent of plant and production; H. C. Vandewater, building superintendent; R. Ernest Tucker, superintendent of recreation; T. W. Watson, chairman of the City Planning commission; Ray L. Morrow, city attorney, and H. C. Saulsberry, city controller.

The following were the Burbank hosts: Mayor J. C. Crawford; Trustees John Nielsen, Irving S. Watson, E. T. Jackson and Russell B. Mullen; Chief John H. Long of the police department; Chief H. M. Davis of the fire department; Judge A. A. Crawford of the police court; E. E. Kirk, city attorney; Arthur J. Rose, city engineer; R. R. Scott, street superintendent; C. H. Kline, chairman of the Burbank Planning commission; W. E. French, manager of the public service department; Dr. J. N. Van Meter, health officer; F. S. Webster, city clerk; William E. Smith, city treasurer, and P. A. Farley, building inspector.

FROM EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK, Dec. 19.—The local branch of Occidental college will share dollar for dollar with the proposed Beverly Hills branch, in all funds raised either from sale of the Bell real estate or in receipts from endowments, states Dr. R. D. Bird, president.

While there will be two widely separated branches, one here for girls and the one at Beverly Hills for boys, in reality there will be but one institution, under one management, Dr. Bird states. Mr. Bell has already given $450,000 to the Eagle Rock branch, he adds.

It is proposed by Dr. Bird to found high grade musical and art departments here, and this step may be taken as early as next year, he intimates.

A three months' contest in the Christian Bible school has closed with a fine new banner in the hands of the Loyal Messengers class. Another class lost by a small fraction. Someone remained at home just one time too often and a victory was turned into defeat. The Messengers have a smile their friends predict will last at least for three months. Some of the other ones say, "but that's all." Mrs. Eubanks teaches the Messengers.

Jesse Mercer, formerly on the local Eagle Rock police force before annexation, but now on the motor cycle force of Los Angeles recently had a narrow escape from death. He was going after a speeder, going over fifty miles an hour, and a collision occurred when the driver turned in a direction opposite from his signal. Mercer was thrown about thirty feet and landed in a heap with his machine. He escaped with only a few bruises.

Mrs. Mayme Hanson of Minneapolis, who has been the guest of her brother, W. P. Ball and family of Rockland avenue, has left on her return trip. She will stop in San Francisco.

Forbes Starts Bitter Attack on Mortimer

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—A scathing attack on the character and veracity of Elias H. Mortimer, star witness for the government, was launched by the defense as the opening move in its fight to disprove his charges of graft and bribery in connection with the United States veterans' bureau for which Colonel Charles R. Forbes, former head of the bureau, and John W. Thompson, contractor, are on trial in federal court here.

Mortimer, whose story as a government witness, ran the gamut from "gay" parties with women, to looting of the veterans' hospital appropriation, was pictured by the initial defense witnesses as a "liar," a "drunkard" and an unwelcome guest at his Washington hotel.

Thirty-eight million more passengers rode on London busses last August and September than in those months of 1923.

An electrical wringer that can be easily moved to any part of the house has been invented.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, Dec. 19.—Larry Woods is the new president of the Burbank Realty board. L. H. Boydston has been elected vice-president and Frank E. Anderson, secretary-treasurer. These officers, together with Charles B. Wood, H. B. Lind, and W. A. Stroud, will constitute the new board of directors.

The board will work together with the Chamber of Commerce, states Mr. Woods, one of the first moves in this line being a request that the chamber officials institute a real estate division, with the Realty board to back up its work.

Dr. Babcock, head of the Southwest museum of Los Angeles, will give an illustrated lecture tonight at the Methodist church, on "The Cliff Dwellers of Colorado." Arthur Monroe of Burbank, who for the past two seasons has been park ranger and guide in the Mesa Verde national park, where the ruins of these cliff dwellers are located has, in conjunction with Dr. Babcock, prepared about seventy-five lantern slides from photographs taken by them amid the ruins. These slides will be used in conjunction with the lecture.

Mr. and Mrs. John Denhart of Redlands are visiting at the home of Mr. Denhart's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Denhart, of 711 Tujunga avenue. They will be here for a few days.

Mrs. Robertson of Chino is visiting with her son, Mr. Cooper and family of Penrose avenue. Mr. Cooper and family will probably make their future home with Mrs. Robertson.
